MTA Head Asks 'Open Mind' on Plan

By WADE BURKHART

NEWBURGH

Dr. William J. Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, called for an "open mind" on the Master Plan for the development of the jetport at Stewart Airport, when he spoke at a Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress conference on Stewart at Mt. St. Mary's College in Newburgh today.

According to Ronan, the master plan is only the work of MTA-engaged consultants—TransPlan Inc. and Seelye, Stevenson, Value, and Knecht Inc.—and has not been accepted by the MTA.

Ronan siad the MTA was "interested in exploring" the consultants' report, and would hold a series of public meetings so that the MTA might get ideas from local officials and residents, on how the airport could be best developed and what the local communities can do to develop "combatible land use" with the airport.

He noted, however, that the first stage of development at Steward recommended by the consultants coincided exactly with what the MTA was already planning to do in its own. These developments at Stewart, planned to be completed by 1975, include a rail link to the airport with New York City, customs and immigrations facilities, charter and transport facilities, and extension of the existing runway to 12,000 feet.

Ronan said the MTA was progressing on all the improvements, but noted that the runway extension was bottled up in court by a suit by environmentalists.

The methods of the MTA have come under some criticism, with MTA critics charging a lack of accessibility to MTA information. Ronan defended his authority, claiming there was "no secrecy, no cloak and dagger, no clandestine meetings" in the development of the master plan.

He emphasized that the consultants' plan was just that, and that the MTA has not yet accepted the plan, nor did it have a plan of its own "hidden in our desks, or wrapped in some cloak room."

Ronan said the MTA had been "battling straw men" for the past two years, and he made reference to "spurious stories" in the media.

The main purpose of the conference was to present the master plan to the about 350 officials and residents who attended it.

The master plans calls for the completion of the jetport by 1990 with eventual construction costs totaling from $850 million to $1 billion.

According to the presentation, the jetport is necessary for the economic survival of metropolitan New York. It said metropolitan New York was in competition with other metropolitan areas in this and other countries and need extended air service.

Even if Stewart is expanded according to the master plan, it will be saturated by increased demand by 1990, along with Kennedy, LaGuardia, and Newark Airport, the other airports in the MTA system.

The airport is expected to have a significant impact on the employment picture of the surrounding area. There are presently 92 employes at Stewart. This is projected to rise to 720 in 1975, 5,680 in 1980, 14,080 in 1985, and 29,200 in 1990.

The airport is expected to oper up an additional 90,000 off-site jobs by 1990. The payroll for all airport-generated jobs is expected, by 1990, to be about $1.2 billion.

Stewart's high speed rail line, which would put the airport 58 minutes from New York City, could be very significant to the area, in some ways as significant as the airport.

PLANES AT STEWART AIRFIELD—WILL THERE BE MORE?

Successful Finale to Man's Longest Space Journey

Pinpoint Landing for Skylab Astronauts

FROGMAN CHECKS APOLLO COMMAND SHIP
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Skylab's astronauts came safely home from man's longest space journey today, splashing down with pinpoint precision in the Pacific Ocean after 28 days and 11 million miles in orbit.

"We're all in good shape," Commander Charles Conrad Jr. reported as the spacecraft descended. "Everything's OK."

The astronauts almost were held over in orbit to try to repair a refrigeration problem in their space station. But Mission Control decided there was nothing the astronauts could do and told them to come home.

So, 10 minutes behind schedule, Conrad Dr. Joseph P. Kervin and Paul J. Weitz undocked their Apollo ferry ship from the station and executed a series of maneuvers that sent them slamming into the atmosphere above Thailand for a fiery descent.

The Apollo craft hit the calm Pacific waters at 9:50 a.m. EDT about 830 miles southeast of San Diego, Calif., within sight of the main recovery ship, the USS Ticonderoga. It was just after dawn off the West Coast.

Hundreds of white-clad sailors on deck and millions watching television around the world again had a ringside seat to a U.S. man-in-space landing as the Apollo craft floated down through low-hanging clouds and dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

"Everyone's in super shape," Conrad said as the spacecraft bobbed on the water awaiting pickup. Frogmen immediately leaped from helicopters to secure the spacecraft with flotation collars.

The Ticonderoga reported the astronauts had landed 6½ miles from the ship and that the ship was 6½ miles from the target point, indicating a perfect touchdown.

The Ticonderoga steamed to pick up the Apollo capsule with the astronauts still inside, in contrast to most earlier U.S. flights when the spacemen were lifted to the carrier by helicopter.

Medical requirements dictated the pick up method today.

Medical experts were not certain how the astronauts would react after returning to earth's gravity following record exposure to space weightlessness so they decided the astronauts should be subjected to as little activity as possible until they can be examined in mobile medical laboratories aboard the Ticonderoga.

The landing completed an historic space mission that lasted 28 days and 50 minutes. During that time the spacemen circled the earth 395 times.

Mission Control was kept in suspense for most of the final 76 minutes of the flight — a period when the Apollo ship was out of radio contact with ground stations.

The Ticonderoga's radar picked up the streaking craft at a distance of 183 miles, 10 minutes before landing.

While out of radio contact, at 9:11 a.m., the astronauts conducted the critical retrorocket burn that slowed their 17,100 mile-an-hour speed by 130 miles, allowing earth's gravity to tug the spacecraft out of orbit and start the long glide through the atmosphere to the eastern Pacific.

The refrigeration trouble caused considerable concern. A maneuver intended to correct it caused a brief gyroscope problem that caused the 10-minute delay in the astronauts' departure from the orbiting laboratory.

"We're free," Conrad reported seconds after the control center flashed the go-ahead for undocking from the 118-foot-long laboratory.

They left behind a space station which they had salvaged with some daring, difficult and often ingenious repair tasks after it was damaged during launching May 14.

After the undocking, the astronauts made a 45-minute fly-around inspection of the station, televising pictures of the odd-looking space vehicle to mission control for evaluation by experts.

Then, in quick succession, they triggered the engine firings that gradually dropped them closer to earth from their original orbital altitude of 275 miles.

To get the astronauts to medical trailers on board as quickly as possible after landing, the carrier was to steam to the Apollo capsule and hoist it on deck with a crane. In earlier U.S. manned space flights, the astronauts were plucked by helicopter from their floating spaceships.

Speed in retrieving the astronauts is essential because doctors are keenly interested in their initial reaction to earth gravity after four weeks' exposure to weightlessness.

"In general, the three crewmen are in good health," said Dr. Royce Hawkins, the astronauts' chief physician, Thursday. "The re-entry stress and reintroduction to gravity is the critical period in question now."

Testing just how well man can withstand the deconditioning effects of living for long periods in space is one of the main objectives of the Skylab program.

Two more missions are planned, with the Skylab 2 and 3 crews scheduled to rocket up to the laboratory on July 27 and in October. They'll remain aboard for 56 days each, continuing the medical, earth resources, solar astronomy, space manufacturing and other experiments started by the first crew.

Nixon, Brezhnev Sign Pact Pledging to Avoid Nuclear Wars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev pledged today to avoid military confrontations and threats of force that might lead to nuclear war between their two nations.

In a policy declaration, the leaders of the two nuclear superpowers agreed to "immediately enter into urgent consultations with each other" should the risk of a nuclear conflict arise.

Nixon and Brezhnev signed the agreement — the eighth since the start of their summit talks — in a ceremony in the East Room of the White House a few hours before their scheduled departure aboard the presidential jetliner for San Clemente, Calif., for the conclusion of their week-long conference.

In the agreement, the two leaders promised that the United States and the Soviet Union "will act in such a manner as to prevent the development of situations capable of causing a dangerous exacerbation of their relations, as to avoid military confrontations, and to exclude the outbreak of nuclear war between them and between either of the parties and other countries."

The accord also calls for the signatories to proceed from the premise that each will refrain "from the threat or use of force against the other party, against the allies of the other party, and against other countries, in circumstances which may endanger international peace and security."

In advance of the signing, Nixon briefed congressional leaders of both parties on the declaration, which is a statement of policy—not a treaty—and therefore does not require Senate ratification.

Presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger said the intent of the doctrine was "to prevent the outbreak of nuclear war."

The decision of the two leaders to hold a third summit conference in as many years was announced at a lavish banquet at the Soviet Embassy. In a jovial atmosphere, Nixon and Brezhnev dined and toasted each other after signing pacts earlier in the day to speed nuclear arms negotiations and cooperate in research on peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

Before they boarded the "Spirit of 76" for a late afternoon flight to the Western White House, Brezhnev arranged to meet with 40 American businessmen to sell them on expanded trade with Russia.

Raising their glasses in a red and gold trimmed banquet room Thursday night, Nixon and Brezhnev pledged a continued effort to expand Soviet-American friendship.

". . . The Soviet Union's line at improving relations with the United States is not some temporary phenomenon," the stocky Brezhnev said. "It is a firm and consistent line reflecting the permanent principles of Soviet foreign policy . . . It is a line that rests on the full support of our people."

Nixon replied he hoped the third summit meeting could be held next June. He indicated he wished the meetings to become annual affairs.

"These summit meetings have brought us closer together, have brought greater understanding of our differences and greater determination to reduce those differences," Nixon said.

Brezhnev will be a guest at Nixon's home in San Clemente, La Casa Pacifica, from this evening until Sunday morning when he flies back to Washington. He will pre-tape a television address which will be broadcast to the American people Sunday evening.

Brezhnev leaves the United States Monday for Paris.

Obscenity Law Change by Supreme Court

Vogt, Glassman Comment on Ruling

KINGSTON

Prosecutors and police officials expect many changes as a result of the Supreme Court's new ruling on obscenity, and many say it is just what they needed to lower the boom on dirty books and movies.

The ruling, which came Thursday, established a new set of guidelines that will allow states and communities to ban books, magazines, plays and films that may be allowed elsewhere.

The majority opinion declared that juries can apply their local moral standards rather than a "national standard" in state obscenity cases.

In Ulster County, the new ruling means "X-rated movies will probably have to go," according to District Attorney Francis J. Vogt. "The ruling will certainly make cases easier to prosecute," Vogt said.

"I like the ruling," said Kingston Police Chief Julius Glassman. "I feel the public demands vigorous action on pornographic materials, and this ruling should make such action easier," Glassman said.

The Kingston police chief said statistics show sex crimes are on an increase across the nation. "I feel pornography is a cause of it," Glassman said.

"If I operated one of those stores, I'd close like two minutes ago," Florida Asst. Atty. Gen. Ray Marky said Thursday after hearing of the ruling. "I think they are out of business."

Similar optimism was voiced by law enforcement officials across the nation after the high court widened the definition of obscenity and said community standards should prevail.

The new guidelines will permit states to ban books, magazines, plays and motion pictures that offend local standards, even if they might be approved elsewhere.

Many officials felt the court had finaliy clarified the language of the law and they cited the difficulty and expense in the past of applying national standards of decency to local cases.

"I expect that in the immediate future local communities can determine for themselves what will and what will not be tolerated in the nature of explicit sexual material," said Larry Salmon, Floyd County district attorney and chairman of the criminal law section of the state bar of Georgia.

Arkansas Atty. Gen. Jim Guy Tucker concurred.

"What correlation is there between a block in the center of New York City and Bald Knob, Ark.?" he asked.

However, the 5-4 decision met with sharp criticism from civil libertarians, book and magazine publishers, movie theater and book store owners and patrons of the pornographic arts.

"That's no victory for civil liberties," said Melvin Wulf, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "That's a serious setback for freedom of speech and of the press."

Jack Frantz, executive chairman of the National Book Committee, said his group has always argued that community standards meant the American community at large.

"It's absurd on its face that a book is deemed obscene, say, in Binghamton, N.Y., and not in Carmel, Calif. It's patently unfair to the reader," Frantz said.

Tom Ferrell, managing editor of Esquire magazine, responded, "I think for a national publication, it's kind of scary. If it means that there are going to be 50 laws governing obscenity, rather than one, it's going to be very troublesome for everyone."

In Chicago, a spokesman for Charles Levy Circulating Co., which distributes Playboy, Penthouse and similar magazines, said the company does not consider them "pornographic in any way, shape or form" and he foresaw no problems with the new law.

Ralph G. Haddun, 76, owner of an adult movie theater in Charlotte, N.C., criticized the decision.

"We don't make 'em come in here. We don't go out with a shotgun. It's supposed to be a free country," he said.

'Refrain From Nuclear Testing' ...International Court Order

THE HAGUE (AP) — The International Court of Justice called on France today to refrain from nuclear testing in the South Pacific pending a final decision on the legality of the test series.

By an 8-6 vote, the court ruled that Australia and France should not take any action in the meantime "which might extend the dispute or prejudice the final decision of the court."

The court's ruling followed applications last month by Australia and New Zealand seeking an injunction against the French test series.

The court said it would schedule further hearings in September and December. It did not say if France, which boycotted last month's hearings, would be represented at the forthcoming sessions.

French opposition leader Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber said in the Tahitian capital of Papeete Thursday the French government plans six or eight nuclear atmospheric tests in the South Pacific this year, and must start them by the end of July.

The Radical party leader is in Tahiti to lead a mass demonstration Saturday against the tests.

The World Court's ruling still left the door open for France to step into the case should this now be decided by the French government.

The court noted that France had declined to accept its jurisdiction in the case in a letter handed over by the French ambassador to the Hague on May 16. At that time, the French also demanded that the Australian and New Zealand applications should be removed from the court's agenda.

The court declined to do that today, but invited Australia to file submissions by Sept. 21 attesting to the court's jurisdiction "and the admissibility" of the Australian application.

It set Dec. 21 as the deadline for any counter proposals that the French may decide to file.

French officials had no immediate comment on today's ruling.

French officials in the past said they would ignore any decision on the controversial tests by the court.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my son, John M. Shane, who passed away June 23, 1962.
To your grave I wander,
Flowers placed with care,
But no one knows the heartache,
As I turn and leave you there.
If I could have one wish,
One dream, that could come true,
I would pray with all my heart,
For yesterday and you.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Joseph Perry, who pased away three years ago today, June 22, 1970.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own.
And day by day, I miss him more.
As I walk through life alone,
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a lonliness,
The world can never fill.
The midnight stars are shining,
On a lonely and silent grave,
Beneath where sleeps the one I love
And who I couldn't save.
I think of him in silence,
And often repeat his name,
But all that is left to another
Is a picture in a frame.
Oh God, please take this message,
To my loved one up above,
Tell him how much I miss him,
And give him all my love.

Developer Explains Plans For Hunter Condominium

BY JON POWERS

HUNTER — "Economic progress" or "ecological degradation" were the issues at stake when the Department of Environmental Conservation opened public hearings Thursday on a proposed condominium development at the base of Hunter Mountain, and on the banks of the Schoharie Creek, in Greene County.

The developer — Snyder-Westerlind, Inc. — seeks approval to build a 200-unit townhouse condominium and a 70-unit motel on an 86-acre tract of land near the Hunter Mountain Ski Center. The developer is also asking permission to discharge storm drainage into the Schoharie Creek.

Environmentalists object violently to the plan, claiming that the discharge of any water into the creek would upset its fragile ecological balance.

Attending Thursday's hearing in Hunter were representatives from the New York State Health Department, the Public Service Commission, the National Resources Defense Committee, Trout Unlimited, Theodore Gordan Flyfishers, Inc. and the DEC.

Ulster County was represented by Legislator Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1) and Fred Faerber, a member of the Federated Sportsman's Clubs of Ulster County. Both oppose the development, but neither could remain at the hearing long enough to express their views on the matter.

Instead, most of the hearing was devoted to an explanation of the proposed plans by James R. Snyder, president of the New Jersey-based development corporation.

Perhaps the most significant revelation to come out of Snyder's testimony was the announcement that the developer has abandoned its plans to discharge treated sewage into the popular trout stream. The effluent, said Snyder, will be handled by other means; only storm drainage is to be discharged into the creek.

That may not soothe ecologists, however. It was indicated privately at Thursday's hearing that environmentalists feel even the discharge of storm water alone would irreparably damage the stream.

Snyder indicated during his testimony that the project would be ecologically sound. He said developers intend to respect the integrity of the mountainside environment; that the 25 condominium units would blend with the terrain; and that as few trees as possible would be disturbed.

Earlier, a spokesman for the Hunter Water Supply Corp., which would provide water for the condominium, said, "I've heard several persons express concern for the insect life and fish life, but I haven't heard anyone express any concern for human life. No consideration has been given to the people . . . but the economic well-being of the town (of Hunter) should be a major consideration." He concluded by saying, "We have no intentions of despoiling the environment."

Under cross-examination, Snyder conceded that the development would be immediately adjacent to State Forest Preserve (forever wild) Land, but said the nearest building would be some 1,500 feet from the protected property. Commenting on his 86-acre parcel, Snyder said, "If they (the state) had wanted this land 'forever wild' they would have bought it." He said he feels his development will be environmentally compatible with the resort-styled environment of the Hunter Mountain ski area.

The proceedings in Greene County are being closely watched by many sportsmen and ecologists in Ulster County who feel that the development would ruin the Schoharie Creek, and set a precedent that could endanger streams in Ulster County, particularly the more scenic stretches of the Esopus Creek.

The hearings in Hunter will resume Monday at 10 a.m. Testimony is expected to deal specifically with sewage, water supplies and population density that pertain to the proposed development.

Landfill Session Set

ROSENDALE — The Rosendale Town Board, plagued by landfill problems, will meet with the New Paltz Town Board on July 25 to discuss the possibility of dumping Rosendale refuse on the New Paltz landfill.

Supervisor Gerard Defelicis said at Thursday night's special meeting of the Rosendale board that New Paltz officials had expressed a willingness to meet and discuss the problem after Defelicis approached them following the May meeting of the Rosendale board.

The Rosendale landfill on Hickory Bush Road, filled almost to capacity, has brought strong objections from nearby residents, flooded runoff water across the roadway, subjected the area to a heavy stench, and has cost the town money to raise the roadway several inches since the problem came to a head last summer.

Defelicis approached New Paltz officials about dumping refuse there until the Ulster County Board of Health completes a study of the Rosendale landfill situation. The town investigated three possible new landfill sites but was forced to reject them all.

Defelicis said that he had hoped to shorten the hours at the landfill but had decided against the move after town highway workers said that restricting public access to the landfill to Saturday and Sunday would cause serious traffic problems. It was hoped that shortening the hours would enable landfill workers to better meet state standards, cover and compact refuse better, and maintain the site in better shape without constant interference from traffic, Defelicis said. Instead, Town Justices Albert Morelli and Raymond LeFever will meet with Rosendale village officials to work out a new landfill schedule, with the new hours to be announced later.

Defelicis, commenting on an article in Thursday's issue of The Freeman, said he agreed with Woodstock supervisor Verner L. May and Lloyd supervisor Louis Foscaldi about appointments to town constabularies. Both May and Foscaldi told The Freeman they do not plan to change the title of constable, which Frank Greco, executive secretary of the local Civil Service Commission, called an "illegal title," saying they should be called "police patrolmen."

"We are just concerned with getting the job done," Defelicis said of the town's constabulary force. "We don't feel we need Civil Service at this particular time."

Greco maintains that failure to comply with Civil Service rules could result in disapproval by the commission of the entire town payrolls. Legal action by the county attorney would be requested if town fiscal officers signed paychecks, he said.

Both May and Foscaldi indicated that their towns would fight such action and Defelicis said Rosendale, would, too.

Environmental Grants Now Available

NEW PALTZ — The State Department of Environmtal Conservation is prepared to offer financial grants to help solve municipal problems in air pollution, sewage treatment, and solid waste disposal and for the restoration of publicly owned wetlands.

Grand Application Kits have been prepared for each of the four categories, setting forth procedures for applying for grants in each category — air quality improvement, solid waste recovery and management, sewage treatment and wetlands restoration.

Interested municipalities may obtain information about how to apply for State grants under the Environmental Quality Bond Act of 1972 by requesting the appropriate Grant Application Kit from Warren H. McKeon, Director of Region 3 of the Environmental Conservation Department at New Paltz, 12561.

The Environmental Quality Bond Act authorized $650 million in State funds to assist municipalities in construction of sewage treatment facilities. With the Federal government authorized to meet 75 percent of such costs, State grants are available to cover 50 percent of the balance.

The Bond Act authorized $100 million to assist municipalities in solving immediate problems of air pollution emissions. Grants of up to 50 percent are possble to meet the cost of upgrading incinerators and municipal boilers and furnaces.

The Bond Act also provided $175 million for State grants for solid waste recovery and management projects.

Grants of up to 50 percent will be provided for the construction of facilities to recover materials from solid waste or to convert the waste into useable energy. Where wastes are not generated in sufficient amounts to support a resource recovery project, or where markets for recovered products are inadequate, grants up to 25 percent will be available to fund disposal equipment.

The Environmental Bond Act authorized full state grants to municipalities to restore valuable wetlands. The state grants will compensate municipalities for the costs of restoration.

Steven J. Tasnady came home to a '73 Ford Maverick because it gave him country club comfort at YMCA prices.

Purchasing agent Steven J. Tasnady likes the sporting life, but he doesn't like to throw money away. When he buys a car, he shops darn carefully.

"We looked at the Toyotas, Datsuns, all the other compacts—but they were like expensive playthings to us," says Steve.

"We picked the basic Maverick and we built on that with a V-8 engine, heavy duty suspension, bucket seats, all vinyl decor."

We got a basic, dependable, family sized compact in the Maverick...and we got all the luxury we could ask for in the bargain!"

The days of going out on a limb to keep up with the guy next door seem to be ending. More and more Americans like Steven Tasnady want luxury with economy.

Maybe that's why so many of them are coming home to their Ford Dealers' showrooms and to cars like the '73 Maverick.

Cuban Aid to Dem Campaign Termed 'Ridiculous'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert S. Strauss, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has given sworn testimony in which he termed "ridiculous" the notion that the Castro government in Cuba gave money to the Democratic presidential campaign.

Strauss thus denied one of the premises of the Watergate bugging. Some of the convicted conspirators, including Bernard L. Barker, have said they were looking for evidence to back up reports of such Cuban payments.

"I thought it was the most ridiculous suggestion that I believe I have ever heard and I know of no money like that that came in." Strauss said in a pretrial deposition in connection with his committee's $6.4 million civil suit against the Republicans for damages resulting from the bugging.

Meanwhile, a furor was growing on Capitol Hill over the latest round of news leaks in the Watergate case, many of them involving testimony secretly given by former presidential counsel John W. Dean III, who testifies in public next week.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield urged the Watergate committee to adopt "stricter procedures" to prevent leaks of preliminary testimony. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott charged that "a great many people" were waging "separate campaigns" to their own ends through "manipulation of leaks."

A Watergate committee member, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., said in a television interview (with Martin Agronsky) that a conspiracy was afoot to discredit Dean's testimony in advance.

One set of documents recently leaked involved a White House summary making Dean appear as the prime person covering up the scandal. Other leaked information concerned reported testimony by Dean that he borrowed Republican campaign money to finance his honeymoon.

There were these related developments:

—Thomas F. McBride, one of the Watergate special prosecutors, said consideration is being given to convening a separate grand jury to probe campaign financing. He and his staff are, among other things, looking into allegations that Republican officials drew up a list of corporations which had problems with the government and then went after them for campaign contributions.

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., elder statesman of conservative Republicans, said in Indianapolis that if Democrats had done the burglary and bugging, the press would have called it "cute" rather than criminal. He also said Republicans should stick by Nixon unless it is "proved beyond any question of a doubt" he was involved.

—The New York Times said Friday morning that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt received a final cash payment of $72,000 in mid-March after he warned White House domestic affairs adviser John Ehrlichman he was going to "tell all" about 1971 White House operations against Daniel Ellsberg. It said the warning was made in a letter sent by Hunt to Dean for relay to Ehrlichman.

—Publishers of a book by convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord, to come out in July or August, said it will implicate President Nixon.

—The St. Louis Post Dispatch said the mysterious spy referred to in Senate hearings as "Sedan Chair" was Michael W. McMinuwhy, a Louisville, Ky., private detective and that he was employed by the Nixon campaign to spy on Democrats.

Strauss, in his 111-page deposition which was released Thursday, also said that less than 10 per cent of the Democrats' campaign contributions were in cash. It wasn't clear just how much this was in dollars, but Strauss said all cash contributions were reported, even those received before reporting requirements went into effect April 7, 1972.

Strauss also said he believes in hindsight that "the same people who did the Watergate or people with the same motives" may have been responsible for a break-in at his own home in Dallas two weeks after the Watergate arrests.

He said most of his papers were gone through but nothing was stolen. He said his wife's jewelry case containing tens of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry was left on the floor.

'John Protecting The President'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said today her husband John Mitchell would "go to jail for Richard Nixon."

"He's protecting the President of the United States," she declared in an early morning telephone conversatvon."

Mrs. Mitchell said she had a number of "reasons" to express those views but she declined to be specific.

"I don't know why, but maybe it's because he had so much faith in Nixon, even after all this," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell declined to say from where she was calling. Thursday, she was seen leaving her New York City apartment house with travel luggage. Mitchell apparently stayed behind.

As to how her husband is bearing up after being implicated in the Watergate scandal, Mrs. Mitchell said, "He's a hurt person. My husband had more integrity on Wall Street than anyone else. He feels everybody's got their tail between their legs and is running now."

She said her husband had lost a "helluva lot of weight" in the past few months, and had been preparing for his defense.

She once again said she would be "perfectly willing" to testify before the Watergate investigating committee, but added "they don't want me."

She also disclosed that Mitchell "still takes up" for H. R. Haldeman, the dismissed White House chief of staff. John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic adviser, she said, however "was so nasty to John, it was unbelievable."

Because of Ehrlichman, Mrs. Mitchell said, her husband wanted to quit as head of the Justice Department two years after he was in office. "I persuaded him to stay on because I thought he was doing a good job" she said.

Teenager Shot In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) —Gunmen shot a Protestant teen-ager between the eyes and dumped his body on a Belfast street today, the latest victim of a new bombing and murder campaign by Northern Ireland extremists, the army said.

Booby-trapped bombs killed two British soldiers searching abandoned houses Thursday in the border towns of Londonderry and Strabane. Five other soldiers were injured in the blasts, one seriously.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed responsibility for the explosions early today. On Thursday, the IRA rejected an appeal from a Catholic group to lay down its arms.

The latest deaths raised to 830 the fatality toll in nearly four years of violence among Northern Ireland's majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and security forces.

The body of the youth was found on a darkened street in Belfast's Catholic Lower Falls district. It was believed to be that of a 16-year-old Protestant building worker kidnaped by a group of men in a car Thursday, a police spokesman said.

An army spokesman attributed most of the violence to the Provisional wing of the IRA, which he said was trying to disrupt next week's regional elections.

"The elections in five days' time represent a ray of hope for the people and the terrorists are determined to destroy that hope," he said.

Within the past 48 hours, almost 1,000 pounds of high explosives have ripped apart buildings and caused several injuries in 18 major blasts in Northern Ireland, he said. The bombing campaign began Wednesday in Londonderry.

A leading Catholic politician accused the IRA of being "reckless and immoral" in the attacks.

"It is time the myth that they are concerned about honor was exposed for the ham it is," said John Hulme, a member of parliament for the Catholic Social Democratic and Labor party.

"If what has been happening in our city (Londonderry) is Irish patriotism then God save Ireland."

Riot Police, Students Clash on Paris Streets

PARIS (UPI) — Riot police battled thousands of crash-helmeted leftist students Thursday night in the 93rd and most violent mass demonstration in Paris this year. Authorities said at least 76 policemen were injured.

Students armed with iron bars and tossing molotov cocktails fought for hours in the Latin Quarter with police who retaliated with tear gas volleys and club-swinging charges.

Officials said sixteen of the injured police were hospitalized, nine of them suffering burns, and 15 youths were arrested. Scores of demonstrators were injured, police said, but the exact number was not known.

Two police vans, a police bulldozer and six automobiles were set afire or damaged in the melee, witnesses said.

The main clash came on the Rue Monge where hundreds of youths—wearing crash helmets and armed with axe handles, iron bars and bottles filled with gasoline—tossed firebombs at police from the street and from rooftops in a vain attempt to prevent a rally held by an extreme rightwing group, Ordre Nouveau (New Order).

The demonstrators, dispersed by thousands of police called to the riot area in scores of vans, failed to stop the New Order meeting and some 500 of their rightwing counterparts cheered speakers inside the police-ringed Mutualite Hall.

Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin said it was the 93rd mass demonstration of the year and police said it was by far the most violent.

Willow Park Query Rises Again

RED HOOK — A generally favorable state audit of the Village of Red Hook's books once again brought out the perennial thorn in the village fathers' sides, the question of water.

As regular as clockwork, audits every two to three years have brought up the fact that the village is illegally supplying water to Willow Park, a 50-home housing subdivision east of the village.

And the remark in answer to the question "Why?" is that if the village were to curtail its supply to these people, they would have no way of getting a supply. When the lots were built they were too small to support wells from ground water.

The question becomes sticky during the summer, especially during the early 1960s and one long hot summer three years ago when the village had to curtail usage, banning such activities as car washing and lawn sprinkling and being instrumental in coordinating Orchard Hill Farms annual summer two-week shutdown.

Orchard Hills is the district's largest commercial user of water, used in processing frozen food.

As recently as last month Mayor Miller D. Magley reported that the village will once again take up the hazel wand and search for productive wells to bolster the village's supply.

The state auditors' report noted: "The village continued to supply water to Willow Park, a development outside the village limits, contrary to a Supreme Court ruling, upheld by the Appellate Court on May 10, 1960, which prohibited the sale of water to residents of the development."

The matter was addressed from a different angle this spring as the Red Hook Village Board adopted a newly reorganized schedule of water rates, charging Willow Park residents roughly twice the amount for the same amount of water as village residents.

The water fund operates independently of the general village fund, and is designed to be self supporting. Thus, village residents, are not supporting out-of-town customers, but the advantages of relatively low cost water to residents of Willow Park through the village is looked at with envy by customers of private water corporations in the town.

Other pertinent information in the new audit, conducted to cover a period from June 1, 1970 to May 31, 1972, states that the term was about equally divided between Mayors Ellroy C. Hand and former Mayor Robert Bowman.

Real property assessed valuation in the village of 1,680 persons was set at $1,820,760, with total assessed valuation $2,010,990, and a tax rate of $44 per thousand dollars valuation.

Stating that he was satisfied with most aspects of the village budget, tax levies, revenues and receipts, expenditures, and indebtedness, the examiner also pointed out that no record was found to indicate that the board had audited or caused to be audited the dockets of the village justice.

And it noted that no written agreement was found on file for the recreation project sponsored jointly by the village and Town of Red Hook, a matter that has been remarked upon in village meetings. This situation is also of long standing.

Youth Program in Jeopardy

POUGHKEEPSIE — "Keeping teenagers occupied during the hot summer weeks is of critical importance," stated Freda Casner, executive director of the Dutchess County Youth Board this week.

It is for this reason that the board is seeking support for the 1973 Summer Neighborhood Youth Corps program, a federally funded summer employment program for disadvantaged youth 15-21 years old that has helped provide summer jobs for Dutchess youth since 1966.

At this moment its fate is in serious jeopardy, Ms. Casner stated.

She pointed out that Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. has joined with 85 other members of the House urging President Nixon to release funds appropriated for Summer NYC. Their letter emphasizes the need for the program to combat the high rate of teenage unemployment but protests taking funds away from the Emergency Employment Act for funding.

The letter states that both programs are necessary, adding, "Virtually every city in America has found that the revenue sharing allotment is inadequate to replace funds cut from categorical programs."

In the Senate Senator Jacob Javits has led the movement to keep the President from impounding the appropriated Summer NYC funds. In his words taking funds from the EEA for Summer NYC would amount to "firing the father in order to hire the son."

Senator Javits also has succeeded in getting an amendment to the bill appropriating $256.5 million, adding $44.5 million and bringing the program up to its operating level of 1972.

While the overall rate of unemployment, as of April, in Dutchess County is a comparatively low three per cent, the rate for teenage unemployment is around 10 per cent.

The proposed Model Cities Delinquency Prevention Program will provide 63 jobs for City of Poughkeepsie youths, but disadvantaged youth in Beacon, the Town of Poughkeepsie, and rural areas of the county need jobs just as urgently, said Ms. Casner.

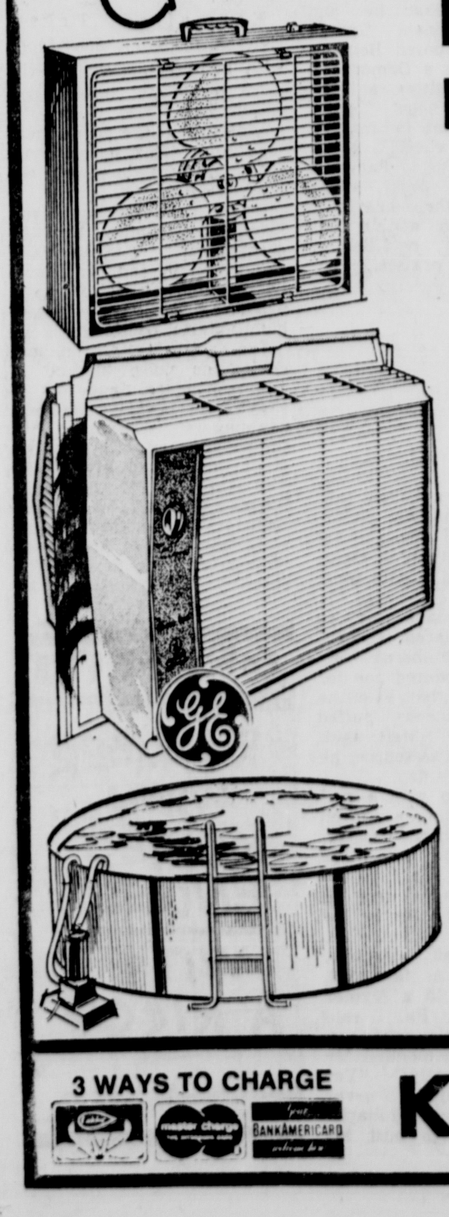

"The best way to inculcate young people with the work ethic idea is by providing a salary for honest work performed," she added, asking members of area agencies to write to President Nixon urging him to release Summer Neighborhood Youth Corps funds.

Watergate Interest Wanes

Winston Churchill, Great Britain's master of memorable phrases, once said "People should not generate any more indignation than they can safely contain."

The words come to mind in relationship to Watergate.

We do not minimize Watergate. It is the worst political scandal of the era. It deserves to be pursued, the foul practices exposed and the guilty punished.

But the shock of the initial revelations has worn off. It is humanly impossible for most of us to maintain the same degree of outrage and emotional reaction day after day and week after week as one sordid detail follows another.

Make no mistake about it.

The perpetrators of Watergate and the events that preceded and followed it will live in infamy. So will the word itself. Events add to our lexicon. We have "Quisling" and we have "Waterloo." So, too, will we have "Watergate" in our vocabulary.

It will connote several things—the seamier side of politics, the mishandling of huge sums of campaign funds, bungled spy cases but whatever interpretation we give it, the word and the situations it describes will be with us a long time.

The very breadth and depth of the case is partly why it is so difficult to maintain constant peak interest. It's not only revolting. It's confusing. More and more names come into the picture, joining the Haldermans and the Ehrlichmans and the Mitchells and the Deans.

And as the witnesses tell their stories to the select Senate committee and to grand juries and to the press, we get so much detail, so many conflicting reports, so many revelations of huge sums of Nixon reelection money being used for other purposes, so many claims of who knew what when and who's covering up, that the mind, in self-protection, shuts off.

As one esteemed journalist said recently, "The proliferating cast of characters and the piling up of one squalid episode after another, have become soporific rather than provocative in their public effect. One looks at the headlines but one gives up figuring who did what to whom or even who is who.

It is possible that in the next few days there will be disclosures of perjury and perfidy even more sensational than what we've already learned, sensational enough to revive our flagging attention.

In the meantime we can empathize with the vocal majority who demanded a return of the soap opera, banal though it is.

Cost-of-Living Clause

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the introduction of the cost-of-living clause in the contract signed by the United Auto Workers with General Motors, an agreement roundly damned by other labor and management leaders and now demanded by some of the biggest unions.

The United Mine Workers, and the Steel Workers, were among the first to damn the clause. It was adopted later by the Steel Workers due to pressure from the rank and file in 1956, abandoned in 1960 and brought back in 1968 under the leadership of I. W. Abel.

Meantime, it became a fixture in the UAW. They receive four pay adjustments annually, based on the Consumer Price Index variations, and an annual improvement or productive factor. It also established a floor below which wages would not drop.

The clause has proved itself a protective shield in recent months as the price spiral has advanced. A seven-cent upward adjustment in the UAW contract for the second quarter this year smashed a 22-year record and brought the cost-of-living allowance to 10 cents this year and 35 cents since the 1970 contract went into effect.

HAMMER AND CYCLE — The first imports from Russia will be motorcycles, which led one headline writer to predict they would be the hammer and cycle competitors to the Japanese motorcycles. WASHINGTON — Two of the entertainment world's shrewdest businessmen, Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis, Jr., were the innocent dupes of high pressure race racketeers, a secret congressional study contends.

This is the judgment rendered by the House Crime Committee on Sinatra's $55,000 flyer in a now-defunct New England race track, and Davis' brief ride as a thoroughbred stable ower.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Mafia Dupes Sinatra

"Because neither could say 'no' to a good business deal," concludes the 183-page confidential draft report, Davis and Sinatra "each found himself the unwitting front in corrupt racing schemes orchestrated by middle men with close ties to major racketeers."

Sinatra, say the report, "ascended to the board of directors and was elected vice president of Berkshire Downs Race Track in Hancock, Mass.," all on a $55,000 investment.

"Also invited to share in the deal was Sinatra's old sidekick, singer Dean Martin," says the committee document. "Martin, who was offered a similar five percent investment in the track for $55,000, ultimately turned it down . . ."

The committee findings, based on detailed hearings, say some of the singer's less entertaining co-investors in the track included New England Mafia boss Raymond Patriarcha and New York mobster Tommy "Three-Finger Brown" Lucchese.

Sinatra says he agreed to join the venture after he was introduced to a man named Salvatore Rizzo in 1962 at a night club in Atlantic City. Rizzo, identified by the FBI as a conduit for organized crime funding of the track, insists he has known Sinatra for 15 to 20 years.

Though Sinatra concedes he was acquainted with Lucchese, he denies he knew the hoodlum was involved in the race track. Indeed, Sinatra swears he didn't even know he was going to be on the track's board of directors.

In any case, Sinatra withdrew from the track and got back his $55,000, partly, says the committee report, because he was investing in the Sands Hotel and gambling casino in Las Vegas. Nevada law bars casino owners from holding interests in gambling ventures in other states.

Summing up Sinatra's role in the track, the committee says "Sinatra and his attorney pictured it as little more than a petty speculative venture." But in fact, Sinatra's "character and reputation were misued to decieve racing officials" about Mafia participation at the track.

Singer Davis also fell into the race horse business at a night club, the study finds. At New York's famous Copacabana, a Mafia boss, Vastola courted Davis' attention by sending over bottles of champagne.

Finally, Davis was sold on the idea of letting his name be used by Vastola's friends on "Sammy Davis Jr. Farms," in New Jersey. But before he could say "Candy Man," Davis found he was being personally billed for purchasing four race horses and was dunned for $8,800. Davis refused to pay.

Footnote: The confidential study is presently being held up by a squabble among Crime Committee members over whether to include a long section on racket ties to Emprise, a nationwide concern that runs food concessions at stadiums and other service enterprises.

Brezhnev's Stomach: Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev may have a stomach for international power politics, but he doesnt' have a stomach for long airplane rides.

According to sources who accompanied Brezhnev on the plane from Moscow, every downdraft sent the distressed Communist chieftain scuttling off to the washroom.

Brezhnev's air sickness may have been the reason why photographers were not allowed close enough to snap his presumably pallid picture upon arrival last Saturday at Dulles airport.

His 18-hour stay at the President's Camp David retreat before official ceremonies began probably was planned to give the Russian leader time to recover.

Earmuffed Press: Newspaper publishers, faced with new regulations on the noise levels in their press rooms, are itchy over the possiblity that the government may use its occupational safety powers to quiet the presses completely.

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the government theoretically could step in and shut down the printing plants of papers whose reporters irritate highly placed politicians.

The act sets a stringent ceiling on noise allowed in any workplace, and, as a short term remedy, has sent newspapers scrambling to equip pressmen with the kind of earmuffs used by jet airport employes. At the Labor Department, which administers the act, sources say soothingly there is no intention to use it to stifle the press.

Inside Report

Feds Versus Feds

WASHINGTON — Citing a secret agreement of two years ago that one federal law enforcement agency would not investigate another, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) strongly resisted before reluctantly investigating federal narcotics agents terrorizing two innocent families in Collinsville, Ill.

The agreement, never made public, was approved by then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. It reflected the long-standing credo of J. Edgar Hoover that the FBI and other federal law enforcement agencies should be trusted to investigate themselves. But Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph Sneed, acting as Attorney General in early May, discarded the agreement and assigned the FBI.

Nor will the investigation stop with Collinsville incidents. The Justice Department's civil rights division, under the aggressive leadership of Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, entered the case May 25 and intends to examine a bulging file of alleged excesses by narcotics agents. Thus, the FBI may fully investigate the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement Agency (DALE) and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD).

The federal narcotics agencies investigated themselves after DALE agents terrorized two Collinsville families mistaken for drug offenders the night of April 23. Their "investigation," however, probed the background of one victim of the bungled raid in order to undermine his credibility. The BNDD report is a closely guarded secret, denied even to Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

U.S. Atty. Donald Mackay in Springfield, Ill. was not satisfied with the BNDD report and requested FBI help. The FBI declined.

The matter was resolved in a high-level in a Justice Department meeting in early May. Acting Director William Ruckelshaus relayed the FBI's reluctance to probe a brother agency and cited the secret mutual non-investigation pact. Sneed overruled those objections, ordering the FBI into the case. Since then, the bureau has dug into the Collinsville incidents with traditional FBI persistence.

The old Bourbons of the Illinois Republican party, showing they have learned nothing from the Watergate scandal, are pushing to give a seat on the Republican National Committee to the party's most flamboyantly ostentatious fat cat: Chicago insurance tycoon W. Clement Stone.

Until recently, the front runner for the Illinois vacancy on the National Committee was the highly respected Rep. John Anderson, chairman of the House Republican caucus and a possible 1974 Senate candidate. But like the Bourbons of France, Illinois's conservative Republicans forget nothing and learn nothing. Some objected to Anderson's progressive policy positions; many more wanted to stick by the stone-age concept that party positions belong to men of great wealth.

The latter point was made in a letter to state committee members by David E. Brown of Winnetka, Ill., a state vice chairman, when Anderson seemed in the lead. Brown urged that the new national committeeman should be somebody "who has proven his medal (sic) in the business and professional world, who would be at ease with his peers in the financial circles."

Stone, whose $2 million gift to President Nixon's 1972 campaign was the nation's biggest, suddenly emerged as candidate of the Bourbons and may actually be elected by the state committee. Some thoughtful Republicans fear that would prove the Illinois party has learned nothing from Watergate about the dangers of big-money politics.

All pretense at labor fraternalism was discarded by Al Barkan, the AFL-CIO's chief political operative, when he tongue-lashed factional foes in the labor movement during last month's closed door session here of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) operating committee.

Barkan, national COPE director, bitterly protested that "a lot of filth and a lot of crap are being circulated around town" by Alan Baron, a left-wing Democratic activist. He next charged that William Dodds, political action chief of the United Auto Workers, is promoting "this kind of filth and crap" designed to portray Barkan as "a political Neanderthal and reactionary."

Barkan next turned to Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers. While political action directors of AFL-CIO unions listened in amazement, Barkan made clear that he and AFL-CIO president George Meany had opposed Beirne's appointment as a Democratic National Committee at-large member, then loudly denounced Beirne for making "untrue allegations" about John Perkins, Barkan's deputy. "The press keeps calling us the heavies," shouted Barkan, adding that he and Meany, not Beirne, deserve labor's praises.

Duke Had a Drinking Problem

The moral is stark: Never accept a gift dog from a left-handed guitarist. Duke of Amherst was a young springer spaniel. His color was liver and white and he had ears down to his elbows. The brown eyes held an old sorrow. The guitarist said he couldn't take Duke on one night stands any more. The mutt was leaving his calling card in every hotel.

So I took him. We lived at 105 Overlook Avenue in Leonia, N.J. Below the house there were big fields and small game. Duke was as friendly as a burglar with a police special stuck in his ear. His ancestry was hunting, so I borrowed a rifle, took him out in the swale grass, and fired it.

He heard the crack and tried to climb a tree. That ended the hunting party. I bought a 15-foot swivel chain and put him in the yard. Duke spent hours trying to get free. In time he displayed intelligence by biting the spring lock and running off.

We didn't know where he went, but he returned at dinner time with a yard of lavender tongue hanging out. He looked like a buck well spent. I suspected he had a girlfriend. My wife said I had a dirty mind. I suggested he could have been introduced to a neighborhood nympho wearing a feather boa and a pint of shalimar. "He's only a year old," my wife said

Duke of Amherst owned two things. One was an old kitchen chair. He managed to curl his 45 pounds on it without too much hanging off. The other was an old soup dish under the kitchen sink. There he enjoyed Corn Flakes and milk. One night he couldn't get on the chair.

We watched. Desperately, he got three legs up but couldn't hike the fourth one. Then he made the fourth one on top but the rest of him fell off on his chin. "He's drunk," my wife said.

"That," I said, "is the worst canard I have ever heard against a poor defenseless animal." "He's plastered," she said. "Look at his eyes." Both were in flames. I reminded my wife that dogs do not drink. Besides, I knew of no neighbor who would give us a drink, much less our dog.

On Saturday, I parked the car at the foot of the hill. Duke squirmed off his chain and trotted down the street, turned right on Grand Avenue, and moved on toward Englewood over the bridge at Overpeck Creek. He was trotting on a bias, the stubby tail wagging in anticipation of joy.

I followed in low gear. It was shocking to see him pause in front of Matt Morans saloon and scratch on the door. A moment later, the door opened and the dog disappeared. I parked the car.

Matt's place was dark and pleasant, with a musty odor of stale beer. A half dozen barflies meditated over the morning shot glass. Duke was standing at the bar, the front paws curled over the edge of the bar, the sorrowful eyes on the bartender. He was lapping booze out of a glass ashtray.

As an aroused citizen, I loudly reminded Matt of liquor licenses, state liquor authority, cruelty to animals and kindred felonies associated with aiding and abetting innocent dogs to become woofled. He polished glasses until I ran down.

"This your dog?" he said. I nodded. "Then you and the mutt get out of here," Moran said. The criminal was now indicting. "He's been blackmailing me for a couple of months. Came in here one day when a regular opened the door. Everybody thought it was hilarious when he put his front paws on top of the bar. "Somebody said: 'I'll take a seven and seven and see what my friend with the long ears will have.' Well, as long as the customer is paying, I cleaned out an ashtray and put a shot of gin in it. That dog sniffed once, and lapped it up. Then he shoved the ashtray aside with his nose and lapped up the ring underneath.

"Another customer bought him a drink. And another. That mutt has a hollow tail. We tried him on gin, vodka, rye, Scotch and bourbon. He would drink anything straight, but if we mixed it with soda, he growled at it."

The story made me so nervous, I ordered a belt. Then I remembered my manners and ordered one for Duke. I noticed that, when he burped, his cheeks puffed out. "You see," Matt said, "once he knew the source, he came back every day.

"I chased him with a pail of hot water and he sat on the opposite curb and howled. I can't afford the racket. We have neighbors. So I invited him in. He leaves here so drunk we point him to the door."

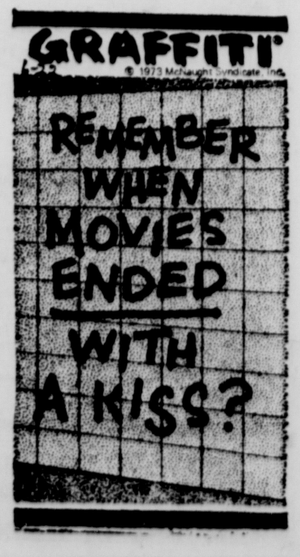

Duke was an alcoholic. There is no A.A. for dogs, so I gave him to a farmer in Pike County, Pa. I said nothing of Duke's weakness. He died in three months. My father said firmly: "You killed that poor dog." I never met the left-handed guitarist again. I'd like to bust his strings.

Paltz Zoning Change Approved

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board approved a zoning change which would allow a large shopping center to be built, and placed a shortened moratorium on all new subdivisions in the town at a special meeting following public hearings Thursday night.

As the moratorium was advertised, it would have lasted until Oct. 1. As it was approved by the town board Thursday night it will last until Aug. 15. The moratorium is effective immediately.

Under the terms of the moratorium, the chairman and secretary of the planning board, the town building inspector, and the planning board are directed not to accept applications, hold public hearings, or issue approvals for any residential subdivisions until the moratorium ends.

The measure was passed despite the heavy opposition of a contingent of local subdivision developers, who told the board a moratorium would place a heavy financial burden on them, one that some of their number may not be able to support.

The purpose of the moratorium is to allow the planning board to update the town's subdivision regulations — with particular attention to density — unencumbered by a rash of applications trying to beat the new ordinance, according to Planning Board Chairman Dr. David Mesches.

The developers present charged that their own particular form of land use was being unfairly singled out by the moratorium.

Supervisor Theordor Lasher denied this, pointing out that the town had already had moratoriums on apartment building and planned unit developments while these regulations were being updated.

The Village of New Paltz currently has a moratorium on all building in certain areas of the village while its zoning ordinances are receiving a thorough reworking.

Lasher said shortening the length of the moratorium from Oct. 1 to Aug. 15 was the best compromise the town board felt it could come up with.

About 25 acres of land in the town, located to the south of Route 299 and Paradies Lane received a zoning change from industrial to highway business. About 14 acres of this land is under contract to be bought from Abram W. Paradies by Tri-State Realty Inc., which intends to put a shopping center on the land.

The zoning change was requested by Tri-State, through Kathleen B. Scott who is acting as their realtor, to allow the shopping center to be built. The 14 acres of Tri-State land is part of a 61-acre tract the company is to buy from Paradies.

Tri-State had requested a larger rezoning, but Mrs. Scott said the rezoning granted was sufficient to put up the shopping center, which is to contain 212,000 square feet, and a 200-unit motel. Planned for the rest of the tract is a two-story, 100,000 square foot office building and additional parking.

Water and sewer facilities are needed for the complex, and Mrs. Scott said the special districts for these facilities has been applied for. No public hearings on the districts have been set.

Councilman Dominick Siregola spoke in favor of the zoning change, and said if water and sewer facilities could be gotten to the site — they will have to tunnel under the New York State Thruway — it would open the adjacent industrial district to development.

Bell to Speak on Pensions

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) will address the 24th annual Conference School of the New York State Supervisors and County Legislators Association on Tuesday, at the Granit-II Hotel in Kerhonkson.

Bell will speak on recent developments in the public employee pension field. He is chairman of the New York State Assembly Governmental Employees Subcommittee on Pensions and Retirement Systems and was recently appointed a member of the Legislature's select committee to study and report on revisions of public employee pension systems. The recommendations of the blue-ribbon committee will be presented to the full special session on July 23, to consider pension reform.

Public employee pensions systems were a major issue before the 1973 general session of the New York State Legislature. State employees, represented by the civil Service Employee Association through its president, Dr. Theodore Wenzl, who will also attend the association's meeting, negotiated a new pension retirement system for state employees joining government servic after July 1, 1973. The agreement covers about one-third of the approximate 1.2 million governmental employees of New York State. Gov. Rockefeller has called the legislature into special session to consider pension reform for the remaining 800,000 public employees in the State.

Water Hearings Set

NEW PALTZ — The question of where to get more water for southeastern New York State, a more pressing question than many people realize, will be addressed in a series of public hearings, one of which will be held at the Region 3 offices of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, July 18, from 9 a.m. to noon.

The topic of the hearing will be "How can the water supply needs of southeastern New York be met in a timely and economical manner that is technically feasible and is economically, socially, politically and environmentally acceptable?"

The hearing will be held by the Temporary State Commission on the Water Supply Needs of Southeastern New York.

The commission has determined that 408 to 567 million gallons a day of additional water will be needed in southeastern New York by the year 2000, and 711 to 996 additional gallons will be needed by the year 2020 to meet the needs of existing and projected populations.

The preliminary findings of the commission show that new technology cannot be depended on to meet the need, and more source development and better managment of water is being studied.

A complete set of the commission's reports may be examined at the Ulster County Health Department, according to a commission statement.

"We invite and urge all interested public and private agencies, organizations, groups and individuals to participate, and give the commission the benefit of their contribution," stated E. Virgil Conway, the commission's chairman.

The purpose of the hearing is to give all those who have not been heard at previous meetings a chance to state their views. According to a commission statement, everyone will be heard. However, prepared statements are preferred — 20 copies if possible — and it would be desirable for those desiring to make an appearance to notify the commission in writing.

The commission had issued a list of topics it would like addressed at the hearing, in the areas of additional water, water resource management and regulation, and urban water utility administration and operation.

$73,606 Grant Approved for 'Closed Out' Program

KINGSTON — Officials of the Kingston Home Improvement Program are taking a "better late than never" attitude toward a $73,606 grant from the State Division of Housing and Community Renewal approved today. The city applied for the money two years ago; the Home Improvement Program will be officially "closed out" on June 30.

Peter Anderson, project director, confirmed the approval of the $73,606 from the state today, but said the money will be turned over to the city which had "pre-financed" the state's share in order to get the project underway. Anderson said that applications have been made for a 90-day extension of the project in order to complete some $70,0000 of existing contracted work and to conduct final paper work on the project.

The Kingston Home Improvement Program, approved in 1969, went into execution in March of 1970. Most of the work has been done in a 69-acre area bounded by Broadway, Greenkill and Clinton Avenues and St. James Street. Area Two is a 38.5 acre site generally bounded by Abruyn, the Strand, Tompkins and Yoemans Street and Area Three is a 10.7-acre section bounded by North, Cordts and Willow Streets and Delaware Avenue.

Anderson said the eventual overall project cost would be close to $700,000, with the bulk of it, some $400,000 spent in home improvement loans and grants.

The Home Improvement Program, also referred to as "concentrated code enforcement" differs from the city's two other urban renewal projects in that the emphasis is on rehabilitation, not demolition. The program makes available three per cent loans for up to 20 years along with grants of up to $3,000 for those who qualify. A $300,000 public improvement contract involving the replacement of sidewalks and the planting of trees in the project areas was also carried out.

Outlook Dim for Tremper

KINGSTON — The Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission is still hoping to carry out some $45,000 worth of renovation on the Tremper House on North Front Street but after Thursday night's meeting, the prospects don't look all that promising.

Architect Albert E. Milliken, a member of the commission, told The Freeman today that the previous bidders, Jennings Construction Inc. of Woodstock and J. H. Schoonmaker and Son of Kingston, have withdrawn their bids. "They say they've got too much work and won't be able to work on this project," Milliken said. Jennings had submitted the apparent low bid of $69,335 with Schoonmaker at $87,626 on April 11. Since then the commission has been negotiating with both contractors in an effort to get part of the work done, i.e., $45,000 worth.

"At the present time we don't have any contractors who want to do the work," Milliken said. "We've got to get somebody to fix the exterior as far as the $45,000 will go," he added, stating that he will be interviewing a number of local contractors during the next few weeks in an effort to get some kind of commitment.

The $45,000 is in the form of a grant from IBM Corporation, secured several years ago by Harry M. Thayer and Fred Johnston, former members of the commission.

Record Low for Dollar

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low against the West German mark in Frankfurt today and weakened in other European centers.

West European countries stepped in to bolster the faltering Italian lira with up to $2.9 billion worth of support.

American money sank in value to 2.55 marks for $1 as the Frankfurt exchange reopened after a holiday Thursday. Wednesday's price was 2.567 marks.

Frankfurt dealers said the dollar was under selling pressure from New York, and from traders hedging against weekend uncertainties.

For much of the past week, the dollar has closed lower in New York than in European money markets, indicating that American companies are selling dollars for stronger European currencies such as the German mark and Swiss franc.

Dealers in Europe attributed the dollar weakness largely to the effect of the Watergate scandal on the Nixon administration and to inflation in the United States.

In Zurich, the dollar was down a small fraction at 3.037 Swiss francs.

In Paris, the dollar lost just over a centime, dipping to 4.22 commercial French francs.

In London, the pound improved by a small fraction to $2.5745, reflecting corresponding weakness in the dollar.

Gold rose $1.50 an ounce to $121.75 in Zurich.

In London, however, the metal was down 25 cents at $120.25.

Five Injured In Accidents

KINGSTON — Five persons sustained injuries in four separate traffic accidents Thursday and early today in Kingston, the towns of Ulster and Marbletown, and on the Thruway south of New Paltz.

The most serious mishap occurred on the Thruway Thursday afternoon, resulting in the hospitalization of Theresa Galeno, 46, of New Paltz. The woman, who was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance, was listed in satisfactory condition today.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by Ettore Galeno of Brooklyn, according to Thruway State Police. No further details on the one-car mishap were available.

Susan Robertson, 26, of Olivebridge, and George Gray Jr., 15, of Kerhonkson were treated and released at Benedictine Hospital Thursday afternoon following a two-car collision on Kripplebush Road in the Town of Marbletown.

Ellenville State Police said vehicles driven by the woman and George Gray, 44, of Kerhonkson, were travelling in opposite directions when the collision occurred. Susan Robertson was issued a summons for failure to keep right.

Sheriff's deputies reported a two-car collision occurred on Neighborhood Road Thursday afternoon between vehicles operated by Ting I. Chung, 38, of Lake Katrine, and Randall C. Guess, 51, of 863 Nicholas Avenue, Kingston. Guess was transported by Doctor's Ambulance to Benedictine Hospital, where he was treated and released for injuries sustained in the mishap.

Deputies said the Chung vehicle was making a left turn into a parking lot when the mishap occurred.

In Kingston, Susan Ortiz, 21, of Lake Katrine, a passenger in a vehicle operated by Edward J. Carlson, 30, of 29 Boulevard, Kingston, sustained injuries when the vehicle struck a utility pole on Pearl Street shortly after 3 a.m. today.

The woman was treated and released at Benedictine Hospital.

Police said Carlson told them he was forced off the road by another vehicle.

Merrill Seeks Bicycle Parking

KINGSTON — William B. Merrill Jr., Republican candidate for mayor, has called on the Koenig Administration to provide parking for bicycles in municipal parking lots.

"How about a few designated areas being posted in these lots where racks can be built," Merrill suggested. "One rack could take up one parking space and would provide safety to all citizens as bikes would not be left 'helter-skelter' all over the area," Merrill said.

Mayor Koenig was not available for comment.

Car Fire

Kingston firefighters doused a car fire shortly after 10 p.m. Thursday near the Rondout Creek Bridge, but not before the engine compartment of the vehicle was extensively damaged. The vehicle was owned and operated by William Whitaker of Connelly. The cause of the blaze was listed as probable mechanical maladjustment.

Burglars Open Trailer At Rondout Bridge Site

CONNELLY — Burglars decided to do some opening up while a two-week delay is in effect for a shut down for major repairs on the Rondout Creek Bridge.

The opening was done at a Klevens Construction Company (the firm which has the contract for the bridge work) trailer, and burglars came away with nearly $6,000 worth of assorted construction equipment.

Sheriff's deputies reported today that the burglary occurred some time between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday. It was reported to authorities Thursday afternoon.

The trailer, located at the east side of the bridge in Connelly, was entered through a rear window, deputies said.

Reported taken were four "rivet buster guns" valued at $1,150 each, and other equipment, for a total value of $5,874, deputies said.

Deputies said due to the size of the equipment there is no doubt a vehicle was used in the buglary.

Investigation is continuing by the Sheriff's Department.

Millionaire Glenn Turner Grilled by German Police

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Millionaire U.S. businessman Glenn W. Turner spent hours "in the wringer" of Preungesheim prison under police interrogation Thursday, a prison spokesman said.

"Turner has been in 'the wringer' (the interrogation room) since this morning," the prison desk sergeant said.

"Detectives from police headquarters came this morning and questioned him. After a lunch break, the questioning went on."

Turner, 38, the founder of Dare To Be Great, a network of American pyramid - sales enterprises, was rounding out week of detention in Frankfurt jail cells. Border police arrested him at Frankfurt Airport last Friday on a British warrant asking his extradition to England.

The warrant alleged Turner was involved in various unlawful business dealings in England, but a German court has postponed extradition hearings until the British furnish more evidence.

The desk sergeant said Turner was sitting out his no-bail detention in model prisoner form.

"He is behaving very well, he is causing us no trouble, a good prisoner so to speak," the sergeant said.

He said Turner was confined alone in a small cell with earphones plugged into broadcast radio channels. He eats standard prison fare, such as a lunch of baked liver sausage, potatoes, peas and carrots and soup.

Like all the inmates, the sergeant said, Turner leaves his cell twice a day for about three hours of recreation each time.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange has disclosed that nine member firms currently are under exchange surveillance for financial difficulties and some of them may have to be liquidated.

The firms were not identified.

The announcement was made by Joseph M. Bishop, vice president in charge of the member firms department. He also disclosed that a total of 68 firms have been put on an "early warning list," because they have had quite high losses in relation to their excess net capital.

The nine firms under close surveillance do most of their trading business with the public. Bishop said several of them already are transferring much of their public business to other firms and after this is completed the firms will be liquidated.

He said the firms under surveillance have debt to capital ratios of 10 to 1 or more. Although the exchange rules permit debt capital ratios up to 15 to 1, a ratio of 10 to 1 is considered high, particularly when the industry is experiencing difficult conditions.

John Connally's Political Future Now in Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Connally's first mission as a Republican isn't working out the way he had hoped and he apparently is finding it difficult to bow out gracefully.

Consequently, the political future of the most prominent Democrat-turned Republican may be not good.

On May 10, when President Nixon announced that the former chairman of Democrats for Nixon was becoming a part-time White House advisor, Connally appeared to have come up with the ideal situation.

It offered the opportunity to establish himself as a credible Republican by coming to the aid of his adopted party in its hour of need. On the other hand, by not taking a more formal job with a title, he didn't get close enough for the Watergate taint to rub off on him.

But while denying a string of published reports that the job has turned sour for him, Connally said he hoped his news conference Wednesday would get the message to Nixon "that I hope we get through by the middle of the summer."

"He obviously wants to dissociate himself from the administration," one associate said. "He wants to put as much water between him and the President as possible."

Among the reports that have been leaking out about Connally are that he is at odds with White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, who he reportedly thinks should quit, and has called the White House operation "a screwed-up mess."

Rumblings too frequent, too forceful and too authoritative to be ignored despite public disclaimers say Connally feels frustrated and stifled, ignored and under-utilized.

Connally also is reported to have given Nixon some unwelcome advice about Watergate, which has cooled the once warm relations between the two. Other reports say he seldom gets to see Nixon privately and does not have the punch he did formerly as Secretary of the Treasury, which he held as a Democrat during Nixon's first term.

Eyebrows have arched over the fact that Connally works out of a hotel suite instead of an assigned office in the Executive Office Building and has been given no staff.

The job also has not produced the limelight that an aspiring politician needs. As a private advisor rather than the administration spokesman he was as a Cabinet member, Connally has gotten little or no publicity.

But Connally cannot afford the appearance of abandoning ship at this point, of having failed or chickened out of his mission as savior to an embattled president and healer to the party.

And Nixon equally as much does not need the embarrassment of having John Connally, who he is reported to have predicted will be the 1976 GOP presidential nominee, quit in a huff.

So, Wednesday, with Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren at his elbow, Connally said all the right things, denying all the published rumors—and then demolished the whole effort with several of his witticisms.

He denied he was not being adequately utilized, and then volunteered as how he has had a lot of time "for catching up on my reading." At another point he said: "I believe I've given all the advice that I have to give."

And while denying most of the published reports about him, Connally congratulated the press on its ingenuity and sources, saying: "You have some leakors (cq) who are fairly accurate in what they have been leaking to you."

Devaluation . . . Traveler's Surprise

LONDON (AP) — An American who put aside money 18 months ago to pay for a trip abroad will find each dollar worth only about 75 cents of its former value in Europe today as a result of three devaluations.

He probably heard about the first two devaluations—formal steps announced by the White House and approved by Congress. They reduced the dollars' buying power overseas by 8.58 per cent in December 1971 and by 10 per cent in February 1973.

The third devaluation might be a surprise to the traveler. It was a creeping devaluation, informal and unannounced, and decided in the market place, rather than through negotiations among governments.

Since devaluation No. 2, the dollar has been allowed to float against other important currencies according to supply and demand. Governments no longer were obligated to defend fixed exchange rates.

In some respects, the floating system worked. There were no more world monetary crises.

But the dollar kept floating—more or less steadily downward. Since February, it has lost about 7 per cent in its buying power against an average of leading world currencies, bringing the total shrinkage from the three devaluations to about 25 per cent.

Associated Press correspondents in several European capitals asked bankers, gold dealers, economists and government officials to explain the dollar's weakness since February.

Their answers were remarkably alike on the causes. But proposals for correcting the weakness were far apart.

All those questioned in The AP's survey mentioned Watergate and inflation prominently. They suggested that Watergate would weaken President Nixon's ability to solve U.S. economic problems and that American inflation would erode the value of the dollar.

"I see deeper economic causes in worldwide inflation," said Paul Lichtenberg, spokesman for the executive board of Commerzbank in Frankfurt, Germany. "The Watergate affair was probably only the psychological trigger factor . . ."

As confidence in the dollar has waned, wealthy individuals, multinational corporations and Middle East oil interests have shifted their assets out of dollars into the relative safety of gold.

"No one can say for certain whether the growing distrust in the dollar set off the run into gold or whether it was gold that undermined confidence in U.S. currency," a Zurich gold dealer said. "It is like asking which came first, the chicken or the egg."

Guido Carli, influential governor of the Bank of Italy, this month suggested either raising the official price of gold or letting government central banks sell gold on the free market. Either move would take pressure off the dollar.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said the United States should support the dollar by resuming dollar purchases on world money markets.

Neither view has attracted much international support.

Economists, officials and bankers also differ on whether floating or fixed exchange rates are preferable.

While the arguing continues, money markets remain uncertain.

At the moment, gold is down from record highs and the dollar is up from record lows. But no one can say for certain what will happen next.

There is nothing to prevent the dollar from floating back up again, if the market decides it was oversold during its long slump. But more Watergate developments damaging to the Nixon administration could depress the dollar further.

MRS. PETER R. FERRARO
(Margaret McEntee)
(Lakeside Studio)

McEntee - Ferraro

St. Mary's Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Margaret McEntee of Kingston and Peter R. Ferraro of Mt. Marion. The Rev. Edward Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony on Sunday, June 3.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McEntee of RFD 6, Box 388, Kingston. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ferraro of Box 86, Mt. Marion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of imported satin-faced organza fashioned with a modified fitted Empire Bodice posed over a draped organza skirt in an A-line silhouette. Scalloped Venise lace braid detailed the neckline, sleeves, waistband. The gown featured a cathedral length train. A Juliette-styled headpiece held her triple-tiered, chapel-length, silk illusion veil and she carried an elegant cascade of white bridal roses and stephanotis.

Linda McEntee of Kingston was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Mary Ann Giovinazzo, Jackson Heights, cousin of the bride; Irene Mikesh of West Hurlty, sister of the bride; Marlene Ferraro, Mt. Marion, sister of the bridegroom; and Patricia Saccoman of Kingston. Debbie Perry of Rockville, Md., cousin of the bridegroom, served as flower girl.

The honor attendant and flower girl were gowned alike in apricot polyester voile designed with fitted bodices and abbreviated sleeves to compliment the bridal gown. The gowns featured A-line skirts bordered with a deep gathered flounce. The princess line bodices were detailed with ruffling in self-fabric and white eyelet lace in a bib effect. They wore miniature silk flowers in matching color trimmed with grosgrain ribbon in their hair.

The other attendants were identically gowned except in pale nile green. They all carried arrangements of melon roses, yellow and white miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Thomas Saccoman of 160 Manor Avenue, Kingston, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Michael Giovinazzo, Jackson Heights; Joseph Mikesh of West Hurley; Robert Schufeldt and Frank Saccoman, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Kingston. Joey Perry of Rockville, Md., was ringbearer for his cousin.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove in Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Board of Cooperative Educational Services where she studied cosmetology, is employed at Plaza Hair Stylist in Saugerties.

Her husband, a 1969 alumnus of Saugerties High School, was graduated from Ulster County Community College, class of 1972, and is now attending Marist Brothers College. He is employed at Bob Perry's Arco Service Station in Kingston.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will reside at Sawkill Road.

Sisterhood Elects Slate of Officers

Election of officers took place at the June 13 meeting of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel. Heading the group for 1973-75 are: Mrs. Marvin (Sabina) Millens, president; Mrs. Joseph (Ann) Horowitz, vice president, membership and youth; Mrs. George (Stella) Jacobson, vice president, fund raising; Mrs. Ephraim (Madeline) Propp, vice president, holiday observances; Mrs. Howard (Rita) Smith, vice president, co-ordinated educational activities.

Also, Mrs. Leonard (Mary) Hershoff, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Kenneth (Elsa) Barnes, recording secretary; Mrs. Max (Rosalie) Eckdish, financial secretary; Mrs. Harry (Bernice) Fertel, treasurer.

Mrs. Harry Z. Schectman narrated a slide presentation of the Torah Fund program and the Jewish Theological Seminary. She was assisted by Mrs. Henry Jacobs. Mrs. Sidney Samuels is Torah Fund chairman.

Denise Gail Miller of Kingston and Gary Steven Roeber of Hurley were married Saturday, June 9. The Rev. Gary Mehl of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church officiated at the double ring ceremony. Charles Brand, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Miller of 112 Farrelly Street, Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Roeber of Hurley.

Given in marrige by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gowr of silk organza and Cluny lace. The gown featured a lace apron effect and an attached chapel train which was bordered with narrow lace. A stylized headpiece of daisies and pearls held her circular silk illusion veil. She carried a nosegay of white roses centered with pink, green and yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Raymond (Patricia) Carroll of Rosendale and Miss Rose Cogswell of Kingston were matron and maid of honor, repectively. Mrs. Carroll wore a gown of pink polyester. The printed apron was outlined with ruffles. Miss Cogswell was identically attired in yellow. They both wore picture hats to match their gowns and carried nosegays of pink, green, yellow daisies, pompons and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Robin Elliott, cousin of the bride, Lake Katrine; Miss Vickie Roeber, sister of the bridegroom, Hurley; and Miss Linda Wolven of Hurley. Their gowns were styled identically to those of the honor attendants in a color scheme of yellow and mint floral. They wore picture hats and carried bouquets of pink, green, yellow daisies, pompons and baby's breath.

Miss Jodi Munson of New Salem was flower girl in a pink gown fashioned identically to the other attendants' gowns. She wore a halo of pink, green and yellow daisies, and carried a nosegay of pink, green, yellow daisies, pompons and baby's breath.

Clifford Schryver of Kingston was best man. Ushers were Dennis Miller, brother of the bride, Kingston; Paul Roeber, brother of the bridegroom, Hurley; Thomas Hornung, Hurley; and James Eppard of Lake Katrine. Gregg Barringer of Eddyville was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove in Kingston.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Kingston High School and Board of Cooperative Educational Services School of Practical Nursing, is employed by Ulster County Infirmary.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed by P.G. Simmons, Inc.

After a wedding trip to northern New York and the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Roeber will reside in Hurley.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
© 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

This week's copy of Etiquette has been awarded to Mrs. L. Buchek of McKees Rocks, Pa. for her prize-winning letter describing the courtesy extended to her. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has also been sent to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morganstern of Coroapolis, Pa., who performed the act.

Dear Mrs. Post:

I would like to tell you about the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morganstern.

I was one of ten people waiting for a bus recently. It was past midnight and freezing. The bus was thirty minutes late and the driver of another bus informed us that our bus was in trouble and he did not know when it would come.

Mr. and Mrs. Morganstern were passing by and heard of our predicament. They were on their way to a parking lot to get their car; told us to wait and returned with a large station wagon. They told us they were driving through our town and would be glad to take some of us. Seven of the females got in and this lovely couple took each one of us right to our door. I told them I was going to write to you.

I enjoy your column very much.

Victoria Buchek

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post:

In response to "Cynthia's" desire to show her respect for her deceased mother at her wedding, I would like to share my solution to this situation.

When ordering flowers for my wedding I asked my florist to place the altar flowers in cemetery vases and then into white papier-mache vases. After the reception, my new husband and I went to the cemetery and placed these flowers on my father's and grandfather's graves. Somehow I felt that we had taken a part of the wedding to them — and in those quiet few moments beside the graves it was as if we had my father's blessing on that wonderful day.

Kay

Dear Kay:

What a very lovely gesture!

Dear Mrs. Post:

I would appreciate knowing the percentage of tip for a buffet lunch or dinner where the only service is water and coffee, presenting your bill and bringing your change.

Also, at a cafeteria where they carry your tray, that being the only service?

BETTY

Dear Betty:

When there is no service offered other than filling water glasses, bringing coffee and presenting the check, ten per cent is an adequate tip.

The boys who carry trays in cafeterias do not receive a percentage. They are, in most cases, tipped a quarter for the service.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post:

Our daughter-in-law is expecting our first grandchild. My problem is do in-laws give baby showers? There are three daughters that could give it instead of me. She has no sister but several good friends for whom she has given showers herself. Also, how soon should it be given?

Mrs. K.

Dear Mrs. K.:

Neither you nor your daughters, as members of the immediate family, should give your daughter-in-law a shower. Her friends, or a more distant relative such as an aunt or cousin, are the proper people to give her a shower.

Baby showers should not be held until shortly before the birth or shortly afterwards. To give one too soon is foolish, as there is always the possibility of something going wrong, and it is a very sad thing to have to return the gifts.

To be eligible for the weekly prize of an Emily Post Etiquette book, join my courtesy campaign. Write me, in care of this newspaper, describing briefly the most courteous act you have seen recently. A courtesy award button will be sent to you and to the person who performed the act. Be sure to include your name and address and his, as prize-winning nominator and nominee will each receive a book.

Confessing to Affair Serves No Purpose

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the United States Air Force. I am a married man, but have spent more time away from my wife than with her because I have been stationed overseas in places where dependents are not permitted.

I love my wife with all my heart and nothing could ever change that. We have had a good marriage in which we have always said we would be absolutely truthful with each other. Well, that is my problem. I have failed in my part of the agreement.

I have told my wife that she was the only woman I have ever had an affair with. That's a lie. Before I was married, I had an affair with a married woman. While I was overseas I had two "one-night-stands" with a different girl each time. They meant nothing to me. I can't even remember their names.

I have prayed for forgiveness and feel that Jesus has forgiven me, but I feel so guilty about lying to my wife. But if I told her the truth now she would never believe another word I said.

Should I confess these lies to her or not? Abby, you are the only person to whom I've told this.

At the bottom of your colum in the Stars and Stripes it says: "Write to Abby, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

I think I do. Now tell me, should I tell my wife.

OFF MY CHEST IN GUAM

DEAR OFF: No no, no! Confessing to your wife would only make her unhappy. You've confessed to Jesus. Thats' enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is an unwritten law of ethics among hairdressers. One operator does not deliberately steal another operator's patrons. If the customer herself decides to switch of her own accord, fine and dandy. But for an operator to try to lure away a co-worker's best-paying or most interesting customers is unethical.

As a shop owner who is also a hairdresser I have seen some excellent operators fall victim to such piracy and consequently lose their self-confidence. By the time the owner of the shop becomes aware of what has happened, the offending operators have made themselves so valuable to the shop that the owner can't afford to fire them.

How are the victims to fight back?

NAMELESS OUT WEST

DEAR NAMELESS: It's conceivable that a salesperson might successfully lure away a co-worker's customer. But it's highly unlikely that a hairdresser could "steal" a satisfied patron from a co-worker. If the patron can be "lured away," she's not satisfied, in which case it's her privilege to switch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman with a problem I hope you won't think too silly to answer. Every summer I visit my sister in Omaha for a week. She has a lovely guest room, and I enjoy visiting her, but there is one annoyance.

In the hall just outside my bedroom there is a grandfather clock which chimes on the half hour, and then again on the hour. These chimes keep me awake practically all night. I can't understand how my sister and her husband can sleep with that clock in the hall. When the chimes are silent, I am disturbed by the loud ticking.

I hate to complain to my sister, but I am dreading my next visit. Perhaps if you print this she'll get the hint.

"TICK, TOCK, AND BONG"

DEAR TICK: Here's your letter. And if that clock is still "Ticktocking" and "Bonging" when you arrive in Omaha, ask your sister to please stop the clock for the duration of your visit.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Hints From Heloise

Rock-a-Bye-Baby on the Cold Cart

Dear Heloise:

In the warm-weather time of the year, mothers of tiny babies should carry a diaper or light blanket to cover the baby when in the supermarket.

For some reason temperatures in these markets are lower than the comfort zone, particularly near the refrigerated items (milk, eggs, meats, etc.) and the cold air very often comes from ceiling outlets.

This means the baby in the "carrier" placed in the shopping cart gets a full blast of cold air over his entire body and quickly becomes chilled and thus cries and frets.

Most young mothers are unaware of the chilling and assume that baby either doesn't care for shopping, is sleepy or maybe even hungry.

If the covering is forgotten, a small towel can be purchased at the notions counter to serve as a blanket.

It certainly makes shopping a happier time when baby is warm and contented.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I always have a little left in the bottom of the cup when I drink coffee at work because it gets cold so fast.

Disposing of those last few drops was a problem until I decided to pour what was left in the cup on one of the two plants (vines) in our office.

I always empty the remains on the same plant every day. Now, would you believe that this coffee-drinking plant is beautiful? It has grown larger and has much better color than the noncoffee-drinking one.

It's unbelievable what it's done for that plant 'cause I've been drinking it for years and it's done nothing for me!

Dear Heloise:

My daughter, who is almost 11, recently gave me a good idea.

She was always getting her closet light pull cord mixed in with her clothes.

When I was hanging up ironed clothes in her closet the other day, I noticed she had attached an empty plastic lemon juice container (the kind that looks like a real lemon) to the light cord pull.

This makes the pull easy to spot and it's heavy enough that it doesn't get caught up in the clothes, but stays put.

Dear Heloise:

This is especially for anyone who sews:

If you are making a garment that has buttons on it, take a sample of the material and sew that extra button on it before putting in your button box.

Then when you need that button you can find it at a glance.

Dear Heloise:

When I was married twenty years ago, my mother gave me a butter curling knife with the curved end and serrated edge.

I have never used it in all these years to curl butter. But I do find it fantastic for cleaning the seeds out of squash, especially the smaller acorn and butternut squashes.

Academy Theatre Lists Plays

Rehearsals are underway for two one-act plays to be presented by the Academy Theatre of New Paltz in July. The plays are "Aria Da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay and "Zoo Story" by Edward Albee.

Although both plays deal with absurdity to a certain degree, neither can be truly classed as Absurd, and though both begin with an air of comedy, they quickly evolve into a much more intensely dramatic genre.

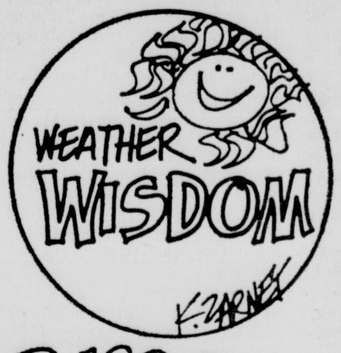

Aria Da Capo, written in the 1920's, uses the traditional Harlequinade for its setting, and the ancient comic figures of Columbine and Pierrot are ostensibly the central characters. In a gradually building twist of plot, however, the usually predictable antics of these two familiar theatrical characters takes on a frightening new perspective when a play-within-a-play is presented, much against their will.

The second play, Zoo Story, begins as a deceptively normal encounter between two men in Central Park, but its progressive intensity and the evenual outcome are starkly terrifying.

Zoo Story, which first brough Edward Albee to the attention of the critics, foreshadows the relentless confrontations between characters that Albee was later to use with slashing brilliance in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?".

Both plays are being directed by Richard Cattabriani, who directed the recent producton of "David and Lisa", and both plays utilize local actors. The plays are the first in a series of summer theatre productions that the Academy will be presenting in coming weeks. Among other planned shows will be a double bill of children's theatre and an original play.

Dobson the Winner, Rain the Saver

NEW YORK (AP) — Who said the New York Yankees couldn't win a ball game without Sparky Lyle?

Two-run homers by Thurman Munson and Felipe Alou and a few well-placed rain drops were all the Yankees needed to give relief ace Lyle the night off.

New York's rain-shortened 5-1 victory over Detroit Thursday night was the first Yankee triumph in the last 12 that Lyle hasn't won or saved.

The two teams tiptoed through a misty drizzle for six innings and a couple of rain delays before umpire John Rice halted things for good. The first time he stopped play, it wasn't so good from the Yankee point of view.

Rain Delay

New York was leading 2-1 on the strength of Munson's homer and Pat Dobson had retired the first batter in the fifth when Rice stopped play. With the game two outs short of being official—and the rain not seeming any heavier than it had been at the start of the game—the Yankees were a bit upset.

"He didn't pick the most opportune time to stop it the first time," observed Dobson, who spaced five nits to get the victory. "It wasn't raining any harder then than when we started. Why did he wait until there was one out?"

Munson was asking the same questions.

"I said to him, 'It's not raining that hard,'" recalled the catcher. "He said, 'I can't see.'"

Munson let that straight line go right by, and the umpire continued, "This is a nine inning game, not five. I'm not playing it for two more outs."

It drizzled on the tarps for 22 minutes before Rice allowed the game to continue. Dobson got the two outs needed to make it an official game and a few moments later, Alou's homer made it 4-1 for the Yankees. Matty Alou's double and a single by Bobby Murcer gave the Yanks a wrapup run in the sixth before the rain came again.

Norm Cash accounted for the only Tiger run with a second inning homer, the first in Yankee Stadium for a Detroit player since Sept. 4, 1971.

But that lead didn't last long for Mickey Lolich, who surrendered a two-out single to Graig Nettles and then Munson's eighth homer of the year in the bottom of the second.

No Fault

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk could find no fault with Rice's 22-minute delay while the Yankees were two outs away from making the game official.

"Those things don't bother me," said Houk. "That's the umpire's judgment. I figured we could get two more outs. I guess he thought it was going to become a cloudburst. He got the game in, that's what counts."

Rice waited an hour on the second rain delay before calling the game. Tiger Manager Billy Martin was satisfied with that.

"I wasn't surprised when he called it," said Martin. "I thought he made a good decision. I complimented him on it."

Then Martin added one last thought.

"I was surprised," he said. "That we started the game at all."

Elsewhere

In other American League games, the Minnesota Twins edged the California Angels, 1-0; the Chicago White Sox dumped the Oakland A's, 2-0; the Baltimore Orioles beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-3; and the Cleveland Indians whacked the Milwaukee Brewers, 9-1. Kansas City and Texas were not scheduled.

Pinch hitter Joe Lis bounced a run-scoring single up the middle with two out in the ninth to back up Bert Blyleven's eight-hit pitching and give the Twins their win over California. Bobby Darwin, who singled off Clyde Wright and stole second, scored the winning run.

The White Sox finally beat southpaw Ken Holtzman, scoring twice in the fifth on hits by John Jeter and Carlos May. Stan Bahnsen got the win despite giving up 12 hits, two shy of the most hits ever allowed in a nine-inning shutout.

Paul Blair drove in three runs with a homer and a single to lead the Orioles over the Red Sox. Blair drilled a two-run shot in the first inning off loser Luis Tiant and added an RBI single in the third.

George Handrick crashed a two-run homer, his tenth in 14 games and fifth in 10 times at bat, and Buddy Bell and John Ellis added solo shots to power the Indians over the Brewers.

Zany Fortune Falls on Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Zany fortune fell on the faltering Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday night, something they plainly need these days.

"I've seen some strange things happen," said Pirate Manager Bill Virdon after his club squeezed out a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets. "This is one of them."

A disputed call at home plate in the seventh inning in which Yogi Berra was tossed out of the game for the first time as the Mets manager gave the Pirates a 1-0 lead.

The winning run scored in the ninth on a double play with the bases loaded. But the way it occurred was bizarre.

Relief pitcher Buzz Capra was on the mound when the Pirate caper took place in the ninth.

Leadoff batter Gene Clines drew a walk, took second on a wild pitch and went to third on a single by Dave Cash. Al Oliver then was intentionally walked to load the bases.

The infield and outfield were drawn in close.

Bob Robertson, the batter, hit a sharp grounder to second baseman Felix Millan, who tossed to home for the force out on Clines.

Catcher Duffy Dyer had his arm cocked to fire to first for the probable double play on Robertson when Clines came crashing into him.

The ball sailed over first base—straight into the glove of right-fielder Rusty Staub.

Staub threw the ball to shortstop Jim Fregosi at second base, where Oliver had rounded too far on the overthrow.

He was a dead duck, but the question was how would he be tagged out. Fregosi elected to wait for him at second instead of forcing Oliver to third, thus forcing Cash to move off third.

But while he was waiting for Oliver to retread his steps to second, Cash crossed the plate standing up.

"It was a bad play," said Oliver, "I made a mental mistake out there, but I've been known to get excited on the field.

"If that's what it takes for us to win a game, okay," said Cash. "That may be the only way we can."

Tangled

Koosman and Walker, who went the distance for the first time this season, were tangled in a scoreless pitching duel until the Pirate seventh.

With one out in that inning, Oliver laced a single to center and an out later Manny Sanguillen doubled to center.

Willie Mays appeared to have the ball caught at his shoetops before it popped out and rolled toward the infield.

Fregosi picked it up and fired to Dyer at the plate, a good three steps ahead of Oliver.

But umpire Tom Gorman said Dyer never tagged Oliver and a heated argument erupted. Berra was thrown out.

"He said I bumped him," said the Met manager.

"The ball had me beaten," said Oliver. "But I really don't know if he tagged me."

After the Pirates scored, Jim Beauchamp batted for Koosman in the Met eighth and tripled, and Mays drew a walk. Beauchamp scored on a double-play.

Walker, 3-5, struck out nine batters and walked only two in what Virdon called his best performance in two years.

"All I know is that I felt good," said Walker.

Koosman, 6-6, struck out five and allowed five hits in his seven-inning stretch.

The victory left the Pirates in the cellar of the National League East, but just one percentage point behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Montreal Expos, 4-3; the San Francisco Giants downed the Cincinnati Reds, 7-1; the Houston Astros routed the San Diego Padres, 12-2; and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Atlanta Braves, 5-0.

Bob Gibson scattered eight hits and slugged his 23rd career home run to lead St. Louis over Montreal. Gibson's homer gave the Cards a 4-0 lead and their eventual winning run.

Tom Bradley pitched a four-hitter and ignited a six-run rally in the fifth inning with a double to pace San Francisco over Cincinnati. The triumph snapped a four-game losing streak for the Giants.

Lee May slammed three home runs and drove in five runs to power Houston over San Diego, but the Padres found a bright spot in Dave Winfield, their No. 1 pick in the recent free agent draft. Fresh out of the University of Wisconsin, Winfield collected three hits, including a bases-empty homer in the fifth.

Claude Osteen pitched a four-hit shutout and Willie Crawford pumped a home run to lead Los Angeles over Atlanta. It was Osteen's 37th career shutout.

ONE HE MISSED — Johnny Miller of Palmetto Dunes, S. C., scratches his head after he missed a putt for a bird on the 12th hole during first round of American Golf Classic at Akron, Ohio. Miller shot a 67 — a hole-in-one included — to share the first round lead in the tournament (UPI)

Miller Shoots An 'Easy' 67

AKRON, Ohio (AP) "This," murmured Johnny Miller, "Is a good habit I'm getting into."

The lanky blond had just put together a threee-under-par 67—including a hole in one—for his first competitive round since he won the United States Open Golf championship with a record 63 last Sunday.

Millers' 67 on the long, tough Firestone Country Club course Thursday gave him a share of the first round lead in the prestige-laden American Golf Classic.

"It was an easy 67," Miller said. "I've been getting the absolute most possible out of my rounds, this one wasn't like that. I feel like it could have been a lot better."

He was tied with 23-year-old Forrest Fezler, an on-rushing tour sophomore, who also clipped three strokes off par on the lush 7,180 yards of the Firestone layout.

Arnold Palmer and three others were just one stroke back at 68.

Jack Nicklaus, who has collected a leading $190,000 and four titles already this season, topped a big group at 69. He reeled off one string of three consecutive birdies but dropped back with a bogey from a bunker on the final hole.

"That's not a bad opening round for me here," said Nicklaus. "I usually start off with 74 or 75. I played pretty well, but I'd feel better about it if I hadn't made that bogey on 18."

Bruce Crampton of Australia, winner of three titles this year, matched par 70 but streaking Tom Weiskopf took a far 74 and was well back in the field. Lee Trevino is not playing.

It's Official... Tennis Boycott On

LONDON (AP) — The international tennis rebels insisted on going through with their boycott of Wimbledon today and the world's most famous championship becomes a ghost tournament.

After a meeting lasting most of the night, the militant Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) snuffed out flickering hopes of peace and confirmed that 78 of its members were walking out.

The announcement came exactly seven hours before officials of the all-England club sat down to make the draw. The tournament starts Monday.

It meant that dozens of lower ranked players who normally would have little hope even of qualifying for Wimbledon were thrown into a hunt for prize money totalling 52,000 pounds—about $130,000.

Ilie Nastase, ordered by Romania to play, became a runaway favorite.

With defending champion Stan Smith among the boycotters, Nastase found himself challenged seriously only by men like Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, Alexander Metreveli of Russia and Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill.

Connors, 20-year-old lefthander is the only prominent American player who is not a member of ATP.

ATP first announced its boycott plan two days ago after a British high court judge refused to interfere in tennis lawmaking and lift the suspension of Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia.

Pilic had been suspended by his national federation unjustly, said ATP, because he refused to play for his country in the Davis Cup.

Wimbledon was left with a slim hope that some players might desert the ATP camp at the eleventh hour and play. Declarations of withdrawal were not being handed in by ATP until just before the draw was due to start.

Wimbledon originally accepted 112 players for the men's singles and left 16 more places open for winners of the qualifying tournament which has been going on intermittently between rain showers since last Monday. More than half of the 112 were involved in the boycott plans.

Officials had an alternative list of 128 made up of the non-boycotters plus the hopefuls who entered the qualifying event.

The women's singles goes on unchanged. Billie Jean King, reigning Wimbledon queen, called a meeting of the girls Thursday night and formed a 35-strong women's association to fight for higher prize money.

But she said there were no plans to boycott what she called "the greatest tournament in the world."

Kingston Indians At Monticello

MONTICELLO

The famed Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps will perform at Monticello Raceway during the matinee portion of the track's second double header of the season Saturday afternoon.

The colorful marching unit, dressed in full uniform, will present a complete repertoire of numbers which have made them known throughout the country.

It will be the first appearance at the Mighty M for the Indians and track president Leon Greenberg has called it a "great privilege and honor" to welcome the local group.

"This promises to be an outstanding attraction and those Raceway fans in Kingston and the surrounding area who have seen the Indians perform will be delighted that we have been able to secure them for an afternoon at Monticello," Greenberg said.

Organized in 1950, the Indians have performed throughout many parts of the United States and Canada. One of their stops was in Colorado at the personal request of the late President Johnson.

Directed by Ralph Shapiro, this year's schedule calls for stops in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Jersey and the World Championships in Lynn, Mass.

Junior Babe Ruth

Hurley Lions defeated KPA, 7-3, behind the three hit pitching of Jim Murphy and Kiwanis stopped Turk Construction 8-2 in Junior Babe Ruth League games.

Notre Dame Immortal Frank Leahy Dead at 65

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Frank Leahy, one of college football's most successful coaches with seven unbeaten seasons at Notre Dame, is dead following a five-year battle against leukemia and other crippling ailments.

Leahy, who would have been 65 Aug. 21, succumbed to massive heart failure Thursday at Good Samaritan Hospital. He also had been suffering from spinal arthritis, an infected bladder and diabetes.

He fought the ailments just like he coached his football teams—to win.

"His death was no surprise," said Johnny Lattner, one of four Heisman Trophy winners Leahy coached. "He'd known it for two years, and when he first found out he had leukemia, he told me, 'John, I'll be the first to beat it.'"

Lattner revealed that Leahy was taking acupuncture treatment for his arthritic spine, and said Leahy's decision to take the treatment was symbolic of his character.

"It eliminated a lot of the pain, and he wanted to beat leukemia through acupuncture. He just wanted to win," said Lattner.

Leahy rekindled the football legend ignited at Notre Dame by Knute Rockne, his former coach. Leahy coached the Fighting Irish to an 87-11-9 record from 1941 to 1953, with the exception of 1944-45 when he was in the U.S. Navy.

His Notre Dame clubs captured the mythical national championships in 1943, 1946, 1947 and 1949.

Prior to going to Notre Dame, Leahy coached Boston College to an astonishing 20-2 record, including a 19-13 Sugar Bowl victory over Gen. Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers —a game which went a long way to establishing the Sugar Bowl as a major event.

Despite his successes at Notre Dame, Leahy didn't like being compared to Rockne for whom he played at center and tackle in 1928-29.

"There will never be another Rockne," he said.

Leahy, who at the time of his death was an executive for Canteen Corp., a vending operation, and lived in nearby Lake Oswego, Ore., is survived by his widow, Florence, and seven children—Frank Jr., Gerald, Mary and Christopher, all of Lake Oswego; James, of Pasco, Wash.; Mrs. Sue Muostakas, Chicago, and Mrs. Florence Harter, Chicago, and 14 grandchildren.

Mrs. Leahy said she would decide sometime today whether to hold the funeral services in Portland or Long Beach, Ind., where the Leahys lived for many years.

To his players, Leahy was often a strict taskmaster and they called him "the master." Leahy's favorite expression for his players was "lads."

Players who passed through Notre Dame under Leahy's tutelage have left their own mark on the game, both professional and collegiate. All America honors were won by 36 of his players.

Among the stars he coached at Notre Dame were quarterbacks Johnny Lujack and Angelo Bertelli, halfbacks Lattner, Terry Brennan and Bernie Crimmins, end Leon Hart and tackle George Connor.

Unlike Rockne, whose locker room orations to his players became a part of his legend, Leahy's dressing room remarks were brief. During halftime of the big game against bitter rival Army in 1947, the blue-eyed Irishman sent his players out on the field by simply telling them: "Gentlemen, Army is waiting for us out there." The Irish won that one, 27-7.

Leahy was only 45 when he resigned as coach in 1954 because of poor health, running up a 107-13-9 record as head coach of Notre Dame and Boston College. He was succeeded by Brennan but Notre Dame did not reach national heights again until recent years under Ara Parseghian.

Leahy was born in O'Neill, Neb., Aug. 21, 1908, and received his early education in Winner, S.D., and Omaha, Neb.

A promising amateur boxer, Leahy was thinking of a ring career. But he decided to come to Notre Dame to play football after listening to Rockne make an after-dinner speech.

VICTORY RIDE — Frank Leahy, 65, who coached Notre Dame to seven undefeated football seasons and maintained the legend set by Knute Rockne died Thursday after a long illness. He is shown here being lifted to the shoulders of players after final game victory over SMU in South Bend, Ind., in 1953—his last year with the Fighting Irish. Only a tie with Iowa earlier in the year kept it from a perfect finish for Leahy. (UPI)

Rock Music and Harness Racing

Greenberg's New Promo

NEW YORK (AP) — Monticello Raceway President Leon Greenberg is fed up with New York State's abuse of horse racing. "It's gotten to the point," he says, "for me to take things into my own hands."

So, tired of battling low attendance figures and high taxes with little help from the state's legislature, Greenberg is coming up with a gimmick that should combat his problems. Starting July 4, Monticello will feature shows by big-name rock groups before the regularly scheduled racing program.

Recording stars including Blood, Sweat and Tears, Jay and the Americans, the Four Seasons and the Everly Brothers will perform at the upstate track through July and August, with other appearances by Chubby Checker, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Classics IV, the Ike and Tina Turner Review, and others.

"The sports and entertainment fields have always been our biggest audience competitors," Greenberg said Thursday, "so the only way to beat the competition is to combine the two in one big package.

"Remember, Woodstock—the sight of that fabulous rock festival a few years ago—is just a mile up the road from here, and if 350,000 people sat in the rain to listen to many of these groups, I think they'll come here and enjoy racing besides."

Greenberg continued to speak, but was completely drowned out by the blare of a high-volume rock group entertaining the press and show people gathered at a Manhattan restaurant for the Raceway's announcement. Outside, a four-year-old trotter, appropriately named "Sound of Music", snacked on some Central Park grass.

But despite the levity of the occasion, Greenberg was deadly serious. "Tax-wise, horse racing is the largest contributor to New York states' income, and rates are nearly 50 per cent higher than some other states; yet it's no use relying on the legislature for help, for instead of legislating to help racing, they legislate to hurt it," Greenberg said.

"The politicians are only using racing to aggrandize themselves," he continued. "Howard Samuels (director of Off-Track Betting in New York), for example, couldn't care less about racing . . . he's trying to use it for political betterment.

"So, it's up to us. And if the race track has to become the next Las Vegas, I'm willing to do it," he said.

Greenberg has spent "over six figures" in obtaining the services of the groups for his raceway. "But," he said with a smile, "I think it'll all work out."

Botsford-DeStefano Win British Victory Amateur

POUGHKEEPSIE

Bob Botsford and Ralph DeStefano made their home course advantage count Thursday, posting a best-ball 66 over the Dutchess Golf and Country Club to win this year's edition of the British Victory Amateur Tournament.

A field of 136 of the best players in the Westchester Golf Association were in the chase for the trophy that was first awarded in 1927. Iucluded were Willie Turnesa of Knollwood, a former British Amateur champion, and Ray Billows of Dutchess, who won this event five times as an individual before the format was changed to team play in 1950.

Siwanoy Country Club donated the trophy in honor of the British Amateur victory of Jeff Sweetser, a Siwanoy member, and the tourney was originally named the Sweetser Tournament. After Turnesa won the title in 1948, the tournament was renamed the British Victory to recognize the achievements of both WGA golfers.

This year, the Westchester Golf Association produced its third British Amateur champion, Dick Siderowf of Aspetuck. Siderowf did not compete Thursday.

Ernie Holmes On Probation

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Ernie Holmes, 24, the Pittsburgh Steelers defensive tackle arrested March 16 for wounding an Ohio Highway Patrolman and firing at vehicles on I-80 near here, was placed on five years probation Thursday in Mahoning County Common Pleas Court.

Holmes, who had pleaded guilty to three counts of assault with a deadly weapon, has been undergoing psychiatric treatment in Pittsburgh.

His psychiatrist, Dr. Albert Corrado, testified Holmes—at the time of the shootings—suffered from an accute paranoic psychosis and had lost "the ability to discern reality."

Corrado said he felt reasonably certain the incident would not occur again.

Steelers' officials said Holmes had not been dropped by the team.

Federal charges of interference with interstate commerce are still pending.

Secretariat Will Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat, "the horse of the people" as jockey Ron Turcotte called him after the Belmont Stakes, will race at Arlington Park June 30 because trainer Lucien Laurin and owner Helen Tweedy agree with Turcotte.

"We want the public to see him," Laurin said Thursday of the decision to send the first Triple Crown champion in 25 years to Chicago for a three-horse match race.

The opposition for the 1⅛ race will be Our Native, third to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and probably Blue Chip Dan, and the purse will be $125,000, with $75,000 to the winner, $30,000 for second and $20,000 for third.

But Laurin emphasized the chance for more people, and people from a another section of the nation, to see Secretariat before he goes to stud later this year was the overriding reason for going to Arlington Park.

Secretariat is scheduled to leave for Chicago next Thursday.

Secretariat has proven to be one of the greatest attendance and attention magnets thoroughbred racing has ever had.

The strapping chestnut son of Bold Ruler thrilled millions of television viewers, record turnouts for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and the second biggest Belmont Park crowd ever as he marched to the Triple Crown with a dazzling blend of stamina and speed.

Television will be on hand for Secretariat's sooner-than-expected return to action, with the race to be shown live on ABC-TV's Wide World of Sports show scheduled for 5 p.m.-6:30 p.m., EDT.

Linda's Chief, who lost to Secretariat as a 2-year-old but has not faced him this year while winning several stakes, was originally expected to start but owner Neil Hellman decided against it because the distance was too long.

The next three races on Secretariat's schedule at this time, according to Laurin, are the 1⅛-mile Jim Dandy, listed as tentative, the 1¼-mile Travers at Saratoga in August and the 1½-mile Woodward, in which he would meet older horses, Sept. 29 at Belmont Park.

Under terms of a $6,080,000 syndication for stud, Secretariat cannot race after Nov. 5.

Barthel Recalls Another '8 Strokes'

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

There are a couple of interesting bits of history surrounding the third round of the Ulster County Amateur Golf Tournament as Rick Barthel and his eight-stroke lead head the field at New Paltz's Locust Tree. One of them concerns the 1964 title when Barthel himself erased an equally big margin by William (Buzzy) Costello to win his only previous title.

"The same type of thing can happen," admitted Barthel, recognizing his own advantage might not be so secure as it appears on paper. "There's no way I'm confident. So many things can happen."

The closest pursuer at 150 to Barthel's even par 142 is Leon Randall, and that brings up another sidelight. Since Barthel's '64 victory, Randall and fellow Wiltwyck member Harvey Bostic have won every Herdegan crown between them.

"Randall can do it," said Barthel. "If he gets his putter going he can turn in some great scores. Potentially, I think he's the only one who can."

Barthel's comeback nine years ago was the result of a record-tying 63 at Woodstock, and even though that score is hardly realistic at either Locust Tree or Sawyerkill, the site of the final round, the eight-stroke difference is still in jeopardy. Barthel feels Locust Tree will be the key:

"The key shots will be the first shots — the drives. You just cannot stray at Locust Tree. There's water and trees everywhere, and if you start straying, you're going to shoot 80's."

But while the tee shots may have become especially significant for the final 36 holes, it has been the other end of the game that has bolted the Onteora coach into his lead. "My biggest problem the past few years has been my putting. I putted extremely well the first two rounds, and that's the difference between a 68 and a 76. Before if I missed a green in regulation it was a bogey, but now I can save it."

Any halfway respectable score Saturday will enable Barthel to coast home with the trophy, but he dosen't intend to coast. "I'm not going to sit back and glide," he said. "If I have a birdie putt I'm going to try for it. The way I played the first two rounds worked pretty well. I'm just going to avoid penalty strokes and three-putts. If somebody gave me a 152 for the next two rounds right now I'd take it."

A 284 would be rugged for any of the 29 other finalists to overcome, even second place Randall. Defending champion Harvey Bostic, now at 158 would have to tour the two courses in 18-under-par to do it.

Bostic blew himself out of the running in the second round at Rondout where he staggered in with 85. Therein lies a lesson and points out the real key to Barthel's quest. It's going to be next to impossible for anybody to beat him. He just has to make sure he doesn't beat himself. At Locust Tree and Sawyerkill, that will be an ever-present danger.

"Every now and then a round like that happens to a good golfer like Harvey," Barthel said. "That's a facet of the game, and it wouldn't be the same without it. I'm just going to have to keep the ball in play."

Saturday at 8 a.m. the drama starts at Locust Tree. Sunday's starting time is 8:30 a.m. at Sawyerkill.

HEART BOWLING CHAMPS — Bill Hart (L) Ulster County Heart bowling champion receives trophy from Rita Senor, county chairman, as George Flemings, Bowlerama lanes manager, looks on.

Hart and Morse Heart Champs

KINGSTON

Bill Hart and Anne Morse have been announced as Ulster County champions in the annual Tri-County Heart Bowling Tournament. Hart, a member of the International League at Ferraro's Bowlerama, posted 688 gross, while Mrs. Morse won her title with a 607 gross in the Ellenville Bowl-O-Mat's Ladies Shawangunk League.

Columbia County honors went to Lee Sheldon of Hendrik Hudson Lanes in Hudson with 647 in the women's division and Russ Holt of Chatham Bowl with 699 gross in the men's division.

Tick Tock Lanes in Coxsackie swept Greene County honors with Judy Griffin leading the women's gross with 590 and George Beechert pacing the men with 689.

The Tri-County winners competed against more than 2,000 entries in the three counties. Big-hearted bowlers raised a total of $2,540 for the Heart Tournament. Ulster County chairmen were Elbert Milliott of Ellenville and Rita Senor of Kingston.

Ulster CYO Girls Track Title Won by St. Mary's

KINGSTON

St. Mary's of Kingston won first place in the annual Ulster County CYO Girls Track Championship, but Betty Anne Jerkowski and Maida Lewis of St. Peter's, Rosendale, dominated the individual performances.

Miss Jerkowski captured three first places, as St. Peter's scored 41 points to finish third behind St. Mary's (60) and St. Joseph's (42). St. Peter's of Kingston scored 10 points for fourth place.

Miss Jerkowski placed first in the 220 relay, 75 yard dash and high jump with a leap of 3 feet, 11 inches in the under-75 pounds class. Miss Lewis was second in high jump (4-11), 100 yard dash and 220 relay and third in softball throw.

Luanne Hall captured three medals for first in running broad jump and softball throw and third in the 440 run. Susan Beyersdorfer also won three medals in the under-75 pounds class, winning the 220 relay and placing third in the long jump and 100 yard dash.

Record-Breaking 1,530 Straight Holes of Golf

LEBANON, Tenn. (UPI) — After playing 1,530 consecutive holes of golf, Raymond Lasater has decided to take a break from the links to let his blisters heal and give his aching muscles some rest.

He says he'll recover until Sunday, when he plans to play a leisurely 27 holes.

"But you know, that might be a little too much for a 44-year-old grandfather to play in one day," he said Thursday, 62 hours and 20 minutes after he teed off in pursuit of the world marathon golf record.

He not only broke the record, which had been 1,062 straight holes, but eclipsed it by 468 before calling it quits.

Lasater, a supervisor at a plant that makes aircraft parts in nearby Nashville, teed off at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday.

After about 900 holes, he was informed that his 19-year-old daughter, Mrs. Karen Lasater Weaver, had given birth to her first child, a 5-pound, 11-ounce boy.

He broke the record, set last year by two Miami, Fla., youths, during a rainstorm at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday and, wearing two sets of gloves to protect his hands and limping along on blistered feet, kept on swinging away.

He said he wanted to establish a record "no one will forget" as a birthday present to his first grandchild.

Lasater, who rode a golf cart around the Hunter's Point golf course as he played, kept up his strength with hamburgers, chicken salad sandwiches and potato salad prepared by his wife and mother at a house trailer set up on the course.

He averaged between 85 and 95 shots per 18 holes on the par 72, 6,155-yard course.

Notre Dame Immortal Frank Leahy Dead at 65

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Frank Leahy, one of college football's most successful coaches with seven unbeaten seasons at Notre Dame, is dead following a five-year battle against leukemia and other crippling ailments.

Leahy, who would have been 65 Aug. 21, succumbed to massive heart failure Thursday at Good Samaritan Hospital. He also had been suffering from spinal arthritis, an infected bladder and diabetes.

He fought the ailments just like he coached his football teams—to win.

"His death was no surprise," said Johnny Lattner, one of four Heisman Trophy winners Leahy coached. "He'd known it for two years, and when he first found out he had leukemia, he told me, 'John, I'll be the first to beat it.'"

Lattner revealed that Leahy was taking acupuncture treatment for his arthritic spine, and said Leahy's decision to take the treatment was symbolic of his character.

"It eliminated a lot of the pain, and he wanted to beat leukemia through acupuncture. He just wanted to win," said Lattner.

Leahy rekindled the football legend ignited at Notre Dame by Knute Rockne, his former coach. Leahy coached the Fighting Irish to an 87-11-9 record from 1941 to 1953, with the exception of 1944-45 when he was in the U.S. Navy.

His Notre Dame clubs captured the mythical national championships in 1943, 1946, 1947 and 1949.

Prior to going to Notre Dame, Leahy coached Boston College to an astonishing 20-2 record, including a 19-13 Sugar Bowl victory over Gen. Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers —a game which went a long way to establishing the Sugar Bowl as a major event.

Despite his successes at Notre Dame, Leahy didn't like being compared to Rockne for whom he played at center and tackle in 1928-29.

"There will never be another Rockne," he said.

Leahy, who at the time of his death was an executive for Canteen Corp., a vending operation, and lived in nearby Lake Oswego, Ore., is survived by his widow, Florence, and seven children—Frank Jr., Gerald, Mary and Christopher, all of Lake Oswego; James, of Pasco, Wash.; Mrs. Sue Muostakas, Chicago, and Mrs. Florence Harter, Chicago, and 14 grandchildren.

Mrs. Leahy said she would decide sometime today whether to hold the funeral services in Portland or Long Beach, Ind., where the Leahys lived for many years.

To his players, Leahy was often a strict taskmaster and they called him "the master." Leahy's favorite expression for his players was "lads."

Players who passed through Notre Dame under Leahy's tutelage have left their own mark on the game, both professional and collegiate. All America honors were won by 36 of his players.

Among the stars he coached at Notre Dame were quarterbacks Johnny Lujack and Angelo Bertelli, halfbacks Lattner, Terry Brennan and Bernie Crimmins, end Leon Hart and tackle George Connor.

Unlike Rockne, whose locker room orations to his players became a part of his legend, Leahy's dressing room remarks were brief. During halftime of the big game against bitter rival Army in 1947, the blue-eyed Irishman sent his players out on the field by simply telling them: "Gentlemen, Army is waiting for us out there." The Irish won that one, 27-7.

Leahy was only 45 when he resigned as coach in 1954 because of poor health, running up a 107-13-9 record as head coach of Notre Dame and Boston College. He was succeeded by Brennan but Notre Dame did not reach national heights again until recent years under Ara Parseghian.

Leahy was born in O'Neill, Neb., Aug. 21, 1908, and received his early education in Winner, S.D., and Omaha, Neb.

A promising amateur boxer, Leahy was thinking of a ring career. But he decided to come to Notre Dame to play football after listening to Rockne make an after-dinner speech.

VICTORY RIDE — Frank Leahy, 65, who coached Notre Dame to seven undefeated football seasons and maintained the legend set by Knute Rockne died Thursday after a long illness. He is shown here being lifted to the shoulders of players after final game victory over SMU in South Bend, Ind., in 1953—his last year with the Fighting Irish. Only a tie with Iowa earlier in the year kept it from a perfect finish for Leahy. (UPI)

Rock Music and Harness Racing

Greenberg's New Promo

NEW YORK (AP) — Monticello Raceway President Leon Greenberg is fed up with New York State's abuse of horse racing. "It's gotten to the point," he says, "for me to take things into my own hands."

So, tired of battling low attendance figures and high taxes with little help from the state's legislature, Greenberg is coming up with a gimmick that should combat his problems. Starting July 4, Monticello will feature shows by big-name rock groups before the regularly scheduled racing program.

Recording stars including Blood, Sweat and Tears, Jay and the Americans, the Four Seasons and the Everly Brothers will perform at the upstate track through July and August, with other appearances by Chubby Checker, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Classics IV, the Ike and Tina Turner Review, and others.

"The sports and entertainment fields have always been our biggest audience competitors," Greenberg said Thursday, "so the only way to beat the competition is to combine the two in one big package.

"Remember, Woodstock—the sight of that fabulous rock festival a few years ago—is just a mile up the road from here, and if 350,000 people sat in the rain to listen to many of these groups, I think they'll come here and enjoy racing besides."

Greenberg continued to speak, but was completely drowned out by the blare of a high-volume rock group entertaining the press and show people gathered at a Manhattan restaurant for the Raceway's announcement. Outside, a four-year-old trotter, appropriately named "Sound of Music", snacked on some Central Park grass.

But despite the levity of the occasion, Greenberg was deadly serious. "Tax-wise, horse racing is the largest contributor to New York states' income, and rates are nearly 50 per cent higher than some other states; yet it's no use relying on the legislature for help, for instead of legislating to help racing, they legislate to hurt it," Greenberg said.

"The politicians are only using racing to aggrandize themselves," he continued. "Howard Samuels (director of Off-Track Betting in New York), for example, couldn't care less about racing . . . he's trying to use it for political betterment.

"So, it's up to us. And if the race track has to become the next Las Vegas, I'm willing to do it," he said.

Greenberg has spent "over six figures" in obtaining the services of the groups for his raceway. "But," he said with a smile, "I think it'll all work out."

Botsford-DeStefano Win British Victory Amateur

POUGHKEEPSIE

Bob Botsford and Ralph DeStefano made their home course advantage count Thursday, posting a best-ball 66 over the Dutchess Golf and Country Club to win this year's edition of the British Victory Amateur Tournament.

A field of 136 of the best players in the Westchester Golf Association were in the chase for the trophy that was first awarded in 1927. Iucluded were Willie Turnesa of Knollwood, a former British Amateur champion, and Ray Billows of Dutchess, who won this event five times as an individual before the format was changed to team play in 1950.

Siwanoy Country Club donated the trophy in honor of the British Amateur victory of Jeff Sweetser, a Siwanoy member, and the tourney was originally named the Sweetser Tournament. After Turnesa won the title in 1948, the tournament was renamed the British Victory to recognize the achievements of both WGA golfers.

This year, the Westchester Golf Association produced its third British Amateur champion, Dick Siderowf of Aspetuck. Siderowf did not compete Thursday.

Ernie Holmes On Probation

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Ernie Holmes, 24, the Pittsburgh Steelers defensive tackle arrested March 16 for wounding an Ohio Highway Patrolman and firing at vehicles on I-80 near here, was placed on five years probation Thursday in Mahoning County Common Pleas Court.

Holmes, who had pleaded guilty to three counts of assault with a deadly weapon, has been undergoing psychiatric treatment in Pittsburgh.

His psychiatrist, Dr. Albert Corrado, testified Holmes—at the time of the shootings—suffered from an accute paranoic psychosis and had lost "the ability to discern reality."

Corrado said he felt reasonably certain the incident would not occur again.

Steelers' officials said Holmes had not been dropped by the team.

Federal charges of interference with interstate commerce are still pending.

ACCORD

The mighty motorcycles return to Accord Speedway in full force Saturday night. The bikes are back after taking a week off for the famous Laconia race and will race every Saturday for the remainder of the season.

Current leader George Richtmeyer is expected to return along with Stewart Anderson, Dana Dandeneau, Al Weinert, John Fitch and Bob Gover.

Practice runs are scheduled at 7:30 p.m., with racing at 8 o'clock. The quarter-mile Accord track is located on Whitfield Road in Accord.

Secretariat Will Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat, "the horse of the people" as jockey Ron Turcotte called him after the Belmont Stakes, will race at Arlington Park June 30 because trainer Lucien Laurin and owner Helen Tweedy agree with Turcotte.

"We want the public to see him," Laurin said Thursday of the decision to send the first Triple Crown champion in 25 years to Chicago for a three-horse match race.

The opposition for the 1⅛ race will be Our Native, third to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and probably Blue Chip Dan, and the purse will be $125,000, with $75,000 to the winner, $30,000 for second and $20,000 for third.

But Laurin emphasized the chance for more people, and people from a another section of the nation, to see Secretariat before he goes to stud later this year was the overriding reason for going to Arlington Park.

Secretariat is scheduled to leave for Chicago next Thursday.

Secretariat has proven to be one of the greatest attendance and attention magnets thoroughbred racing has ever had.

The strapping chestnut son of Bold Ruler thrilled millions of television viewers, record turnouts for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and the second biggest Belmont Park crowd ever as he marched to the Triple Crown with a dazzling blend of stamina and speed.

Television will be on hand for Secretariat's sooner-than-expected return to action, with the race to be shown live on ABC-TV's Wide World of Sports show scheduled for 5 p.m.-6:30 p.m., EDT.

Linda's Chief, who lost to Secretariat as a 2-year-old but has not faced him this year while winning several stakes, was originally expected to start but owner Neil Hellman decided against it because the distance was too long.

The next three races on Secretariat's schedule at this time, according to Laurin, are the 1⅛-mile Jim Dandy, listed as tentative, the 1¼-mile Travers at Saratoga in August and the 1½-mile Woodward, in which he would meet older horses, Sept. 29 at Belmont Park.

Under terms of a $6,080,000 syndication for stud, Secretariat cannot race after Nov. 5.

Barthel Recalls Another '8 Strokes'

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

There are a couple of interesting bits of history surrounding the third round of the Ulster County Amateur Golf Tournament as Rick Barthel and his eight-stroke lead head the field at New Paltz's Locust Tree. One of them concerns the 1964 title when Barthel himself erased an equally big margin by William (Buzzy) Costello to win his only previous title.

"The same type of thing can happen," admitted Barthel, recognizing his own advantage might not be so secure as it appears on paper. "There's no way I'm confident. So many things can happen."

The closest pursuer at 150 to Barthel's even par 142 is Leon Randall, and that brings up another sidelight. Since Barthel's '64 victory, Randall and fellow Wiltwyck member Harvey Bostic have won every Herdegan crown between them.

"Randall can do it," said Barthel. "If he gets his putter going he can turn in some great scores. Potentially, I think he's the only one who can."

Barthel's comeback nine years ago was the result of a record-tying 63 at Woodstock, and even though that score is hardly realistic at either Locust Tree or Sawyerkill, the site of the final round, the eight-stroke difference is still in jeopardy. Barthel feels Locust Tree will be the key:

"The key shots will be the first shots — the drives. You just cannot stray at Locust Tree. There's water and trees everywhere, and if you start straying, you're going to shoot 80's."

But while the tee shots may have become especially significant for the final 36 holes, it has been the other end of the game that has bolted the Onteora coach into his lead. "My biggest problem the past few years has been my putting. I putted extremely well the first two rounds, and that's the difference between a 68 and a 76. Before if I missed a green in regulation it was a bogey, but now I can save it."

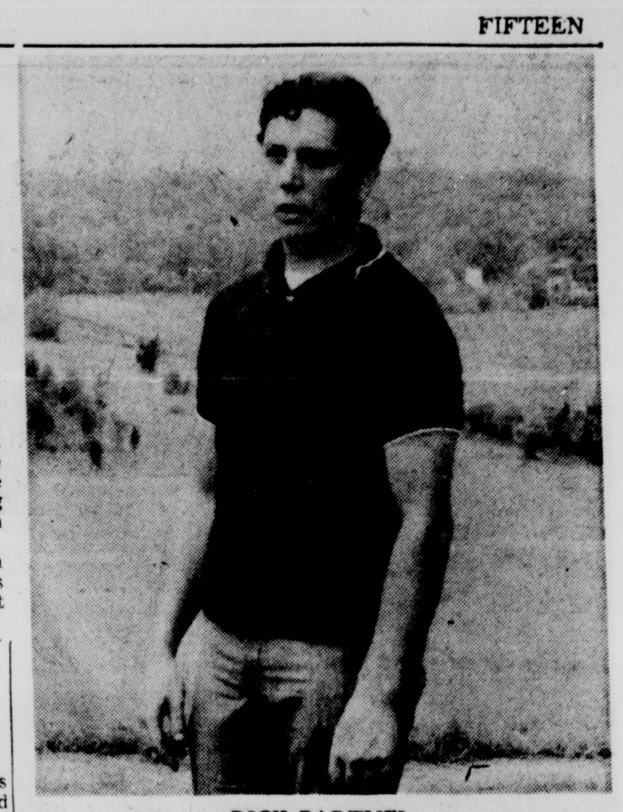

Any halfway respectable score Saturday will enable Barthel to coast home with the trophy, but he dosen't intend to coast. "I'm not going to sit back and glide," he said. "If I have a birdie putt I'm going to try for it. The way I played the first two rounds worked pretty well. I'm just going to avoid penalty strokes and three-putts. If somebody gave me a 152 for the next two rounds right now I'd take it."

A 284 would be rugged for any of the 29 other finalists to overcome, even second place Randall. Defending champion Harvey Bostic, now at 158 would have to tour the two courses in 18-under-par to do it.

Bostic blew himself out of the running in the second round at Rondout where he staggered in with 85. Therein lies a lesson and points out the real key to Barthel's quest. It's going to be next to impossible for anybody to beat him. He just has to make sure he doesn't beat himself. At Locust Tree and Sawyerkill, that will be an ever-present danger.

"Every now and then a round like that happens to a good golfer like Harvey," Barthel said. "That's a facet of the game, and it wouldn't be the same without it. I'm just going to have to keep the ball in play."

Saturday at 8 a.m. the drama starts at Locust Tree. Sunday's starting time is 8:30 a.m. at Sawyerkill.

Record-Breaking 1,530 Straight Holes of Golf

LEBANON, Tenn. (UPI) — After playing 1,530 consecutive holes of golf, Raymond Lasater has decided to take a break from the links to let his blisters heal and give his aching muscles some rest.

He says he'll recover until Sunday, when he plans to play a leisurely 27 holes.

"But you know, that might be a little too much for a 44-year-old grandfather to play in one day," he said Thursday, 62 hours and 20 minutes after he teed off in pursuit of the world marathon golf record.

He not only broke the record, which had been 1,062 straight holes, but eclipsed it by 468 before calling it quits.

Lasater, a supervisor at a plant that makes aircraft parts in nearby Nashville, teed off at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday.

After about 900 holes, he was informed that his 19-year-old daughter, Mrs. Karen Lasater Weaver, had given birth to her first child, a 5-pound, 11-ounce boy.

He broke the record, set last year by two Miami, Fla., youths, during a rainstorm at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday and, wearing two sets of gloves to protect his hands and limping along on blistered feet, kept on swinging away.

He said he wanted to establish a record "no one will forget" as a birthday present to his first grandchild.

Lasater, who rode a golf cart around the Hunter's Point golf course as he played, kept up his strength with hamburgers, chicken salad sandwiches and potato salad prepared by his wife and mother at a house trailer set up on the course.

He averaged between 85 and 95 shots per 18 holes on the par 72, 6,155-yard course.

Future of Route 209... Active Campaign Planned

By CARL GRAHAM

ACCORD — More than 40 Ulster and Sullivan County business, civic and political leaders met Thursday night at the Granit 2 Hotel in Accord to revive the dormant Route 209 Association and plan a concerted drive for a new state highway between Kingston and Port Jervis.

The meeting was called at the suggestion of the Ellenville Chamber of Commerce whose president, Edward Kleinman, served as chairman.

Kleinman and several others who had been active in the Association about 10 years ago all agreed that defeat of the New York State Transportation Bond Issue was the main reason for the demise of the Asociation, but expressed confidence that a well-planned campaign could result in a new road to replace the narrow, twisting Route 209.

"We hope to get 209 up to modern standards," Kleinman said. "We know that we are behind our neighbors in Orange and Sullivan counties."

Eugene Glusker, an Ellenville businessman long active in the Association, said that Westchester County gets most of the funds allotted to the Poughkeepsie regional office of the Department of Transportation, making it difficult to get funds elsewhere in the region.

"In my opinion," he said, "there is only one way to appraoch this situation, and that is to get the ear of the Governor."

Glusker also said that, contrary to predictions, construction of Interstate Route 84 had failed to drain any traffic off Route 209, claiming that truck traffic on 209 in the Ellenville area was heavier than ever.

After several speakers had reviewed past efforts in the long fight to improve Route 209, Benjamin Kaplan, director of tourism for Sullivan County, advised the group to "forget about history and mount an active campaign for the future."

Kaplan said that Sullivan County, highly dependent on the resort hotel trade, was keenly aware of the adverse effect of Route 209 on customers coming to its hotels from upstate and Canada, and said the county would aid the Association in any way possible.

Kaplan also urged the group to act promptly, pointing out that next year's highway budget requests were being prepared now in DOT regional offices "and if you wait until fall it's too late."

Michael Breen of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, the seven-county regional planning and development association headquartered in Newburgh, told the group that PFP had dealt with similar associations for Interstate 84 and Route 17, and that they would "help in any way we can."

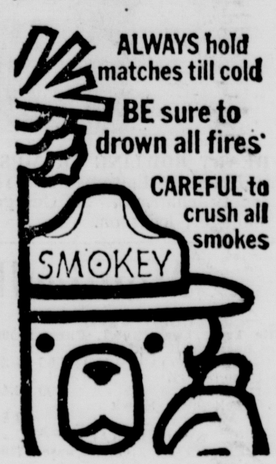

Breen also advised the group that it would be better to deal directly with state officials in Albany rather than with DOT regional offices in Poughkeepsie and in Binghamton, which controls the Sullivan County portion of Route 209.

DeWitt Clinton, an Ellenville businessman and former village trustee, said that an article in a trucker's magazine had called Route 209 "one of the worst highways in the United States" for trucking.

Kleinman named Clinton, Glusker, and Albert Dresner, president of WELV in Ellenville, as a committee to plan a second meeting and propose a slate of officers. Clinton said another meeting would be called in about two weeks.

Appointed to the Board of Directors, along with Kleinman, Clinton, Glusker and Dresner, were: Michael Diamond, mayor of Wurtsboro; David Rylance, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce; William Cossian, Ellenville manufacturer; James Murphy, Ellenville attorney; Wessell Cross of High Falls; Loren Finkle of Summitville, a past president of the Association; James Thompson of WGHQ, Kingston; Thomas Briggs of the Channel Master Corp., Ellenville; and Theodore Kuykendall, representing the mayor of Port Jervis.

Also: Frank Muller, publisher of the Ellenville Journal; Clifford Horton, representing the Town of Mamakating; Frank Kelder, Rochester town supervisor; Thomas McElrath of Rosendale, representing the Building Trades Council of Orange, Ulster, Greene and Sullivan counties; Robert Dowling, mayor of Ellenville; John Gillette of Ellenville; Donald Downs of Kerhonkson; Ralph Zelno of Port Jervis; and George Berthiaume of Port Jervis.

Ellenville Story Has Very Happy Ending

ELLENVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — "The kids were scared to death," said Mary Morrow. "They were being pulled apart for no reason."

Mrs. Morrow and her husband were elated and relieved Thursday when the Ulster County Social Services Department decided to let the white couple keep their two black foster children.

The decision averted a planned demonstration on the Morrows' behalf in this Catskill community.

"Thank God, thank God," said he 38-year-old Foster mother. "I tell you I just can't believe it. All these wonderful people have been so good to us."

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Morrow and her husband, John, 37, a department store shoe salesman, had been told they would have to give up the girls, Dorothea, 9, and Marleana, 8.

"We love them. They love us," she said. "John and I are white. The kids are black. But we've tried our darnedest to give them an identity as blacks. We've tried to become a family. Oh, boy, have we become a family."

The children's alarm came when a social worker on Tuesday took the girls out of class at Ellenville's Central School and told them they would be sent to another home today.

Mrs. Morrow alerted friends and neighbors, who planned a protest march that was to have included blacks and whites. The local head of the NAACP promised help, Mrs. Morrow said.

County Social Service Commissioner Bernhardt Kramer said the case was brought to his attention Thursday morning.

"I looked into it, and I decided the children are to remain in the Morrow home. I also told her she can submit a petition to adopt the children," he said.

Kramer said welfare workers had not threatened to remove the children, but had told Mrs. Morrow her house was in "deplorable" condition and that they might take action if it wasn't improved.

The Morrows took the two girls in 16 months ago and are paid $90 a month each by the county for their care. When their real mother died last year, the Morrows applied to adopt the children, but no decision was made. The children's real father is unknown.

The Morrows have no children of their own, although Mrs. Morrow has a married, 19-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

'Peaceful Revolution' Sought by Juan Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Former President Juan D. Peron, whose return from 18 years in exile sparked bloody gunbattles, said Thursday he hoped to bring about a peaceful revolution "without costing the life of a single Argentine."

"We have to make a revolution, but to be valid it must be peaceful," Peron said in a radio and television address to the nation.

Speaking from his home in a swank Buenos Aires suburb, Peron called on all Argentines to unite in a "constructive peace" to rebuild the country, which he said was in "a grave situation."

At his side as he spoke were Hector J. Campora, the new Argentine president and a loyal Peron protege, and Peron's third wife, Isabel.

The 77-year-old former president made no mention in the speech of the violence that marred his return Wednesday, nearly 18 years after he was deposed in a military coup.

The gunbattles erupted between dissident Peronists who fought for control of a highway bridge where Peron was supposed to address a welcome-home rally by more than two million people. The fighting left at least 14 dead and 225 wounded.

A chartered plane carrying Peron from his exile home in Madrid had to be diverted to a military air base. He then helicoptered to the presidential residence.

Reading from a prepared text Thursday night, he described the country as being in a "post-civil war" period, but he did not describe specifics of the "revolution" he planned. He said only it would be a peaceful one "without costing the life of a single Argentine."

Peron called on all scientists and trained Argentines working abroad to come home and thereby reverse the brain drain to bring to the government "the greatest quantity of gray matter, all chosen by their true value not for lesser political interests."

He defined a good Peronist as "not somebody who shouts 'my life for Peron,' but someone who upholds the Peronist ideological creed."

Peron's role in the 28-day-old Camporo government is not yet clear, but Campora has promised to follow his orders as "a soldier of General Peron."

Storm Causes Power Outages

KINGSTON

A snappy electrical storm on the first afternoon of official summer caused scattered power outages through Ulster County. County.

Central Hudson crews were busy from 4 to 10:30 p.m. Thursday repairing storm damage and restoring power to an estimated 150 customers. Trouble areas included Old Post Road in Esopus and sections of Shokan. A lightning hit in Spring Lake downed a transmission line but there was no interrupttion of service there.

The Caldor-Waldbaum shopping area was without power for approximately five minutes during the period but a Central Hudson spokesman said that the outage was not storm related.

Guilty Plea Is Entered

KINGSTON

Thomas Mitchell Stisi 27, of 487 Broadway, Kingston, indicted on charges of alleged rape and assault, pleaded guilty in County Court Thursday to attempted assault in the second degree.

Stisi will be sentenced pending a report of the Ulster County Probation Department. According to the office of District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, Stisi is on parole from an Ohio correctional institution.

The charges arose out of an alleged incident in which Stisi reportedly forced a woman's car off the road in Woodstock and slashed the roof of her car with a knife in an attempt to gain entry to the car.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, June 23

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until early in the afternoon this is an adverse time and you could get into much trouble if you try to force matters or take risks. However, the afternoon and evening find a new awareness of what can be done to improve your position in almost any department of your life, so take such action then.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning influences can be quite confusing, but if you relax all works out to your benefit by p.m. Evening will then be just fine for social activities. Show your artistry.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Rather unfavorable influences are all around you during day, but take in your stride and by evening all will change. Enjoy the companionship of mate then. Lend a helping hand to needy persons.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Argument could start with friends during day, so avoid, but evening is then just the opposite and social activities most pleasurable. Some aim should be thought out well in a.m.Then go after it with a vengeance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Morning is not good for starting projects, but after lunch all works out well and continues throughout evening. Don't argue with a higher-up early; then you can get the support you want. Stop being so unyielding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have new ideas and projects in your mind early, but need to wait until afternoon before putting any of them in action. Do some careful studying of detail, etc. Steer clear of one who has a bone to pick with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Instead of arguing about bills, study them with care and you know just how to handle matters in a peaceful and wise manner. Attachment is not in a good mood during day. Keep cool and by evening all changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) After lunch is best for talking over certain matters with associates, otherwise there could be arguments if attempted earlier. Civic work is best done on another day. Don't waste your time with a bore in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Cooperate with co-workers, accomplish much, and you are rid of nervousness. Restore energies tonight. Light reading is good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Evening best for amusements since daytime finds you doing important work. Don't neglect this, or you will regret it. Set up appointments early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't try to straighten out matters at home in a.m., but wait until after lunch when it can be done wisely and intelligently. Show you are devoted to kin. Control temper at all costs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Early evening is best time to put new systems to the test so you improve routines greatly in the future. Your mind is working very rapidly and you can reorganize your ideas to make them more workable. Avoid one who bickers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Those monetary problems are best handled in the evening since the morning is apt to be quite confusing; your thinking is muddled. Get property improved. Add to its beauty as well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people with a very inquisitive mind and will do much investigating to get at the true facts, so as parents you have to be most patient with your youngster and answer questions quickly. Send to right schools that will put your child on the right track in life. The pioneer is definitely in this chart, even in philosphical understanding, and spiritual training is a must early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WHY WE SAY

PROPAGANDA

NOT FALSE: Propaganda today is often thought of as being false news but it actually is a neutral word. Propaganda as a word was started in 1022 by Pope Gregory as the name of a committee to publicize and spread the news of the work of foreign missions. It literally means "things to be spread."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FIRM FRIENDS: (Q.) Last spring in school I made all B's, and C's but my friend made two F's.

She and I have been friends for almost two years. Her mother thinks our friendship was partly the reason for her bad grades. Her mother told her that we ought to split up and find new friends.

My girl friend answered her that we are happy the way we are and nobody can separate us. We will be juniors in the fall and we plan on keeping our friendship forever, but still don't know what to do about her mother. Please give us some advice.—No Splitting in Oklahoma.

(A.) You should remain friends permanently, but it is almost certain that you eventually won't be as close as you are now.

You, as juniors-to-be, are approaching the age when girl-girl friendships tend to cool down and girl-boy friendships tend to warmup.

This fact of life may help solve your problem and that of your girl friend's mother.

The cause of your friend's bad grades is probably some thing totally apart from her friendship with you. You do not say so, but apparently up until the spring session her grades were satisfactory

Suggest to her mother that maybe you can help bring her grades up in the fall by coaching her.

UNASKED: (Q) I'm 17 and have a crush on a boy named Matt. He's really cute and we get along well but he would never think of asking me out. I think it's because he thinks I wouldn't go. Is there anything I can do to show him I would? I don't want to seem overanxious or aggressive.—No Dates in North Carolina.

(A.) Never assume what other people are thinking, especially a boy you have a crush on.

It will not be too aggressive to talk with him and smile at him. This and giving him your telephone number should be all the encouragement he needs if he thinks what you think he thinks.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Basketball Tilt From China

NEW YORK (AP) — They're having a cage tilt this week, as they say in basketball circles. What makes it a bit different is that it's in mainland China and being videotaped by a U.S. firm.

The company is the New York-based TVS Televison Network, which says it'll show the first of eight scheduled Sino-American basketball games next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. EDT on an estimated 125 U.S. stations.

It's the first such sports event—aside from those held during President Nixon's trip to mainland China—covered by an American TV company since NBC filmed the now-famous table tennis matches between U.S. and Chinese teams in April 1971.

The basketball battles are between a 12-man team of U.S. collegiate stars and the Chinese national men's team. A woman's championship team from John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo, Neb., also is on the tour and will compete against China's national women's team.

The TVS network, which got permission from the government of mainland China to tape the first game for showing in the United States, has specialized in covering U.S. collegiate sports since the mid-1960s.

TVS Vice President Alan Lubell said his company will go to Moscow to cover the World University Games which run Aug. 15-25. Often called the "collegiate Olympics," the games, involving U.S. college athletes, will include basketball, fencing, gymnastics and wrestling, among other sports.

Lubell said there'll be about a total of 10 hours of Moscow games that TVS teams will transmit for prime-time broadcasting on about 175 U.S. stations between Aug. 15 and 26. Most of it will be shown on the weekends.

He said TVS initially wanted to broadcast live-via-satellite coverage of the basketball matches in mainland China, but the Chinese government vetoed the idea for reasons they didn't fully explain.

Fred Karpin gives this hand played by British expert Victor Mollo to show card reading at its best.

The twist to this hand is that John Q. Ordinary bridge player would make four spades just as surely as Victor did.

Victor ruffed the third heart and played out three rounds of trumps. At this point in the proceedings a good player not quite in the expert class would reason, "West has shown six hearts and three spades. He must be short in clubs." Then the good player would take his ace of clubs; lead a club to dummy's king, finesse the 10 of clubs on the way back and lose to West's jack.

Victor decided to try to get some more information by playing diamonds. Should West show up with two diamonds he could not have more than two clubs so Victor played ace and another diamond.

When West showed out on the second diamond lead Victor had obtained a complete count of his hand as three spades, six hearts, one diamond and three clubs.

There were no problems left. He ruffed the diamond East led with his last trump; played out his top clubs to drop the jack and made the 10th trick with his last club.

'Strong Measures' Promised For Phase Four Program

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Phase IV of the administration's economic program, the period that will follow the current 60-day price freeze, will include "strong measures" to hold down food and gasoline prices.

This promise was made Thursday by Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers. Stein also hinted the freeze might be lifted before its scheduled expiration in mid-August.

Nixon imposed the freeze last week, saving his administration would use the 60-day period to put together the Phase IV program. Stein amplified administration policy in a 12-page statement titled "The Freeze and After" issued Thursday.

"Whatever the mechanism may be, Phase IV is obviously going to contain strong measures for holding down the rise of food prices," the economist wrote. "The President has given a similar directive for gasoline prices at the pump."

Stein said the goal of Phase IV would be to slow inflation "to a rate at which the American people no longer regard inflation as the No. 1 national problem."

A monthly Labor Department report issued Thursday said the cost of living went up 0.6 per cent in May. This compared to an 0.7 per cent rise in February, an 0.9 per cent increase in March and an 0.7 per cent gain in April. Meat prices went down 0.1 per cent last month, the report said, the first decline since December. Meat prices have climbed 13.2 per cent since the first of the year.

There were complaints about the administration's handling of the situation Thursday from the Senate Agriculture Committee and two food-producing groups.

The Agriculture Committee said in a statement the freeze program could prove "disastrous" by producing shortages of food. The members called on Nixon to remove raw food products from the freeze at once and place them under a "Phase IV plan which hopefully will be better adapted to the special needs and problems of agricultural production."

Committee OKs Hike in SS Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 5.5 per cent increase in payments in 1974 to all 28 million Social Security recipients is considered certain to pass the Senate and likely to confront President Nixon next week.

Its approval by the House would put a quick test to Nixon's post-Watergate mood of accommodation with Congress, signaled this week when he signed three bills he had originally opposed.

On Nixon's behalf Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz opposed the Social Security boost Thursday as unnecessary in light of last year's "tremendous" 20 per cent increase, but the Senate Finance Committee brushed away his objections and voted 12 to 2 to raise payments. Republicans Wallace F. Bennett, Utah, and Paul J. Fannin, Ariz., voted no.

Also winning committee approval were a liberalization of welfare payments to aged, blind or disabled adults; a delay in a cutback of social services to the poor; a $268.7 ceiling on federal expenditures in fiscal 1974, as Nixon proposed; and a rider to require congressional approval when a President refuses to spend funds appropriated by Congress.

All were attached to a bill to extend the existing ceiling of $465 billion on the national debt. The ceiling expires June 30.

It must be extended to enable the government to continue borrowing and normal operations.

New Bill Aids Poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House late Thursday voted to create an independent corporation to handle the free legal services program for the poor, but added a series of restrictions on what lawyers can do for their poverty clients.

The measure, as passed and sent to the Senate, would bar the attorneys from engaging in cases involving school busing, school integration, abortion and governmental lobbying.

Final passage came on a 276 to 95 roll call vote.

Regarding lobbying, the bill states that legal services lawyers could not participate in "active politics" on their own free time if they earned more than half of their income as legal services employes.

The program, now lodged in the Office of Economic Opportunity, would be administered by the corporation run by an 11-member board of directors. The corporation would make grants to private and governmental groups to conduct legal services programs.

President Nixon threatened last year to veto a similar measure which never got through Congress. He sent a compromise bill to Congress this year but the committee rewrote some of the limit on activities by the lawyers and this drew opposition of Republicans Thursday.

Congress plans to recess at the end of next week for a nine-day Independence Day holiday. So a decision by Nixon—hinted at by Shultz—to veto the bill could cause Nixon to call Senate approval of the bill and House approval also appeared likely.

Submarine Inquiry Starts

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. Coast Guard board of inquiry into the deaths of two scientists aboard the submarine Sea Link convenes here today two hours after a joint funeral service for the men.

Albert Stover, 51, and Clayton Link, 31, died of carbon dioxide poisoning Monday while they and two companions were trapped aboard the 21-foot minisub 351 feet down off Key West.

Surviving the 31-hour ordeal were Robert Meek, 27, and Archibald Menzies, 37. They have been in seclusion since the tragedy but have scheduled a news conference for later today.

A funeral service for Link, the son of millionaire inventor Edwin Link, and Stover, an expert on submarine safety, was scheduled for the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home.

Link's body later was to be sent to Binghamton, N. Y., the home of his parents, for burial. Stover, a Catholic, will be buried in nearby Jupiter Beach.

Capt. Fredderick Folger, the captain of the Port of Tampa, will head the Coast Guar dinquiry. He will be joined by Cmdr. Delmar Smith and Lt. Cmdr. Ian Cruickshank, both of Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Folger said today's session at the offices of the Vero Beach offices of the Smithsonian Institution, sponsors of the research project, "will be preliminary in nature."

"For the most part, we will be getting names of future witnesses and arranging to pick up technical data dealing with the Sea Link, its operation procedures and the backgrounds on the four men aboard," Folger said.

Future sessions of the investigation board will be in Washington, where more data from the Smithsonian files are available, he said.

The news conference by Meek and Menzies is expected to shed light on the submarine's problems after it became tangled in cables dangling from the scuttled World War II destroyer Fred T. Berry about 15 miles southeast of Key West.

Meanwhile in San Diego, Calif., the commander of a Navy rescue crew that tried unsuccessfully to free the trapped submarine probably could have done the job if they had arrived six hours earlier.

Navy Cmdr. Donald G. Disney said on Thursday that, by the time his 14-man diving crew reached the site last Monday, the underwater current was too strong to allow the divers to reach the minisub.

The minisub finally was yanked to the surface by another ship.

Disney's crew, flown to Key West from San Diego, made several dives but were not able to reach the trapped sub.

"The main problem we had was current," Disney said in an will head the Coast Guard incurrent from 2½ to 4 knots. We were right on the edge of the Gulf Stream."

The current wasn't as strong four to six hours earlier, Disney said.
